Gambling Enters Baker Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate investigators got a fleeting look at Bobby Baker's connections with big-time gambling entrepreneurs Thursday and clamored for more.

U.S. marshals were sent out to scour the country for a missing key witness, Edward Levinson, who operates the Fremont hotel and gambling casino in Las Vegas and who referred to Baker as his "friend in Washington."

Counsel for the Senate Rules Committee, which is investigating Baker's rapid rise to affluence while holding down an influential Senate job, said Levinson has been keeping one jump ahead of its subpoena servers.

Curfew Set To Halt Rioting

PRINCESS ANNE, Md. (AP) —A curfew went into effect Thursday night as white leaders tried to avert another racial demonstration by Negro students.

John Wilson, president of the Student Appeal For Equality at Maryland State College, had said earlier Thursday the demonstrations were suspended until Saturday. But late in the day he said they could happen anytime.

French Accused Of Murder Try

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—South Viet Nam's premier strong man told associates Thursday that French officials paid a terrorist about $1,300 to kill him on one of his trips to the countryside.

Informed sources said Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, who seized power Jan. 30, reported he learned of the plot in time to call off the trip.

In a prompt denial, a spokesman for the French Embassy said, "The premier must have been saying this in jest."

Judge Angry At Hoffa Trial

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — His brown eyes flashing anger, U.S. Dist. Judge Frank Wilson sharply rebuked three defense lawyers who accused him Thursday of siding against them at James R. Hoffa's jury-tampering trial.

It was the first time since the trial began Jan. 20 that Judge Wilson displayed his temper during repeated exchanges with defense attorneys.

The latest exchange interrupted the government's rebuttal testimony, completed in mid-afternoon. The case is expected to reach the jury early next week—the seventh week of the trial.

Hurl Bombs At British Embassy

PANAMA (AP)—Two homemade bombs hurled from a passing car exploded early Thursday on the veranda of the British Embassy residence, where Ambassador and Mrs. Randle Reid-Adam sat sipping a nightcap before retiring.

The bombs exploded harmlessly, but startled the couple. The tear gas and Molotov cocktail bombs had been fashioned from pop bottles.

Hoover Shows Improvement

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Herbert Hoover, at 89, was on the road to recovery Thursday from his third serious illness in the past two years.

Doctors said he was able to sit up in bed for solid food.

Hoover became seriously ill Sunday with a respiratory infection — associates called it pneumonid—and a bleeding kidney.

The 31st president had undergone surgery in August 1962 for removal of a cancerous tumor of the intestinal tract and last June suffered anemia from intestinal bleeding.

Market Slides To Moderate

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market staged only a brief celebration of the enactment of the $11.5-billion tax cut and then it slid downward to a moderate loss Thursday. Trading was fairly active.

The Dow Jones industrial average surged to 801.87 in the first half hour but that was the highest point. As the average continued to back away, traders began to give up the idea that it could close at 800 or better, and they sold, brokers said.

Volume was 5.44 million compared with 5.35 million shares Wednesday.

2 Dynamite Blasts Rock Strife-Torn Railway

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP) —A dynamite blast hurled five diesel locomotives and 27 cars of a Florida East Coast Railway freight train from the tracks Thursday. Several hours later, a second explosion ripped out track on an alternate route just ahead of a northbound freight.

FEC officials said the second explosion occurred about 18 miles west of St. Augustine, and about 15 miles from Palatka, where President Johnson was breaking ground for the Florida Cross-State Barge Canal.

"We don't yet know to what extent the track is damaged, other than they did blow some track up out there," said Pete Taylor, FEC general superintendent of transportation.

Taylor said the second blast occurred a short time before a freight train was to have crossed the spot on its way in to St. Augustine.

The fright, composed of 190 cars, was just behind the freight which was derailed earlier. It had been routed to the alternate tracks.

Second Blast

Taylor said the second blast cut off all available FEC tracks "At least for the time being."

The earlier blast shook the community of Du Pont Center.

The explosion, bringing renewed violence into the 13-months-old strike, ripped into the underside of the lead locomotive. Its engineer was cut by flying glass, but no crew members were injured seriously.

As it has in more than 200 cases of violence along the Miami-to-Jacksonville line, the railroad blamed saboteurs for the dynamiting.

BLASTS CONTINUE — Dynamite explosion threw five Florida East Coast Railway locomotives and 27 freight cars off the tracks north of Daytona Beach. No serious injuries occurred during the blast, fourth to hit the strike-plagued line this month. The FBI has launched a probe of the wreck. (AP Wirephoto)

Johnson Orders FBI Crackdown

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP) —President Johnson ordered a full-scale FBI crackdown Thursday night on the violence that has staggered the Florida East Coast Railway after two new explosions hit the line.

"You and I know we can't settle matters this way in this country," Johnson told a Miami Beach audience several hours after the explosions. "This criminal action must stop now."

Officials of 11 nonoperating unions, who called 1,300 workers off their jobs Jan. 23, 1963, in a wage dispute, have consistently denied involvement. The wreckers, they said, hurt the union's cause as much as the railroad.

The violence brought the federal government into the dispute and Wednesday inspired a congressional bill to force the Florida Du Pont Estate to dispose of the railroad.

Talks Bog Down

Efforts by the National Mediation Board and the Justice Department to force the railroad to rehire the workers pending efforts to settle the strike have been successfully resisted by Ed Ball, 75, trustee of the estate.

The dynamitings evidently have been the work of experts seeking to avoid killing of trainmen. Earlier blasts tore into the undersides of the freight cars after passage of the locomotives.

Udall: LBJ Strong Supporter Of Tocks Island Dam Project

(Special to the Daily Record)
Ottaway News Service

NEW YORK CITY — U. S. Secretary Stuart Udall promised strong support from the Johnson administration for the Tocks Island Dam and recreational area.

Udall made the pledge at a meeting of the Delaware River Basin Commission (DRBC) in New York City yesterday.

He said the Tocks project has the support of President Johnson, key legislative leaders and probably will get southern and western backing.

The secretary noted that within the last month both Congress and President Johnson approved $250,000 appropriation to begin engineering and designing of the dam.

President Johnson has requested an additional $450,000 in his 1965 budget, James F. Wright, the DRBC's director, told the group.

Udall said both House and Senate will begin hearings soon on proposed legislation to create a 60,000 acre national recreational area around the 100 mile shoreline of a reservoir which will result from the dam.

Udall said the bill had "at least a 50-50 chance" of passing in this session of Congress.

He said strong support is already being lined up for the measure.

Col. Elmer P. Yates, chief of Philadelphia district, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, said the actual site of the dam will be determined by the end of this year.

"The first construction contract," he added, "will be advertised in the summer of 1967."

He summarized plans for the rest of this year.

"We are just getting started because we just got this money," he emphasized.

He said the first contract—for aerial photos—has already been let.

Other plans for this year will involve the taking of borings seismatic surveys, and a depthometer study to plot the profile of the river bed.

The DRBC approved its first water resources program, a six year action schedule for development of the 12,750 square mile basin. One of the main points in the program calls for immediate construction of the Tocks Island Dam.

Also approved was a set of rules of procedure, which define the DRBC's regulatory powers.

The DRBC was established in 1961 by a interstate — federal compact to oversee the development of water resources within the basin.

Its members are governors William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania; Nelson Rockefeller of New York; Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey; Elbert N. Carvel of Delaware and Sec. Udall.

Scranton, ill with a virus, did not attend but was represented by Pennsylvania Secretary of Forests and Waters Maurice K. Goodard.

"We understand that both Senate and House committees plan early public hearings," said James F. Wright, executive director of the four-state commission. 'It is our earnest hope and belief that the facts concerning the immense recreation benefits for tens of millions of persons will result in the approval of this far-sighted proposal."

Wright touched on the status of the project in his annual report at the commission's 1964 reorganizational meeting.

The recreation area would surround the reservoir backed up by the dam and would stretch to Port Jervis, N.Y.

A bill giving the green light to the recreation area has been bottled up by controversy over a scenic highway through the area.

'Long Last'

"At long last," Wright said, "it (congressional approval) would mean that national recognition would provide the same outdoor recreation benefits for city dwellers of this part of the nation that have long been enjoyed in sparsely populated regions."

Wright said one of the immediate concerns is development of a comprehensive flood prevention program.

"We are about to enter a contract with the U.S. Geologic Survey for the preparation of a flood atlas for two flood damage stretches — the Schuylkill River near Philadelphia and the Delaware main stem from the Easton-Philipsburg area to Belvidere, N. J.," he said. The study will take about 18 months.

Wright said he was hopeful it would lead to enlightened action among local officials in promoting compatible flood plain uses with the commission.

He said the commission has made steady progress on a numbers of projects which are part of a long range master plan for development of the basin. He said 17 watershed projects are either in the construction or planning stages in the four states and applications are pending on eight others.

Wright said that although a prolonged drought lowered water levels in the Delaware in 1963, the river is getting back to normal "both in terms of quality and quantity."

LBJ Talks Up Democrats, Drops Non-Partisan Role

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Lyndon B. Johnson publicly opened his presidential campaign Thursday night with a strong stand in the South for civil rights — and a hand-shaking tour that showed he was ready and eager for the campaign.

Johnson swept in from the North to address a $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner. On the way, he grasped at Florida's 14 electoral votes, which fell to Republicans in the last three presidential elections.

His talk was the first full-dress political speech he has gotten off since becoming President three months ago. Right at the start Johnson fired at Republicans:

"Today the Democratic party welcomes all challengers."

And in a state where racial issues are important, at least in Northern areas, the President met them head on in terms he has used before — but this time in a significant Southern setting.

Backs Righs

"Full participation in our society can no longer be reserved to men of one color," he said.

"This administration believes the Constitution applies to Americans of every religion, every region, and every race. . . .

"We intend to press forward with legislation, with education, and with action, until we have eliminated the last barrier of intolerance. For as long as freedom is denied to some, the liberty of all is in danger."

Johnson had all the appearances of seasoned politicians everywhere as he made his way down the Florida peninsula during the afternoon.

He pumped hands with people who greeted him in rainy, chilly weather at Jacksonville. He switched there from plane to helicopter for a 120-mile round trip to Palatka, where he stood under a leaky plastic canopy and touched off a dynamite charge 1,000 feet away. That was the ground-breaking for a $158-million barge canal across northern Florida.

He paused again at Palm Beach to visit ailing Joseph P. Kennedy, the father of the late President.

In his Miami Beach text, Johnson once more embraced the programs of Kennedy and even some of those of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The principal programs and achievements of Roosevelt and other Democrats "represent the hopes and needs of the great majority of the American people — in every walk of life and in every part of the country," he said.

Four Freedoms Remembered

When Roosevelt spoke of the "four freedoms," Johnson said "only a few nations enjoyed these freedoms. A generation later, due in great measure to American leadership, those same freedoms flourished in other parts of the world," he said.

This nation has many basic differences with the Soviet Union, he said, "but we also believe that the Russian people desire a better life for their children. Reducing the danger of nuclear holocaust is as necessary to their national interest as it is to ours."

The President briefly listed the accomplishments of Kennedy's and his administration and said he will send to Congress next week a message calling for incentive to all sectors in American society to eliminate poverty wherever it exists.

"High on the list of our objectives will be to provide jobs and training for the young," Johnson said.

He said his administration intends to press forward with legislation, education, and action "until we have eliminated the last barrier of intolerance, for as long as freedom is denied to some, the liberty of all is in danger."

In Palatka, a crowd of some 10,000 sloshed through mud to see the President open construction of the barge canal. "When this canal is completed it will start new and permanent economic growth," Johnson said. "It will accelerate business and industry. It will open up new recreation areas."

The President, who shuttled to Palatka and back by helicopter from the naval air base at Jacksonville, where he landed in an Air Force jet from Washington, ignored the light rain, mud and 50-degree mercury reading.

Lauds Governor

The brief stop at Palatka was billed as nonpolitical. But Johnson said Florida citizens should be grateful to Democratic Gov. Farris Bryant and the state's predominantly Democratic congressional delegation "for the work they did in making this barge canal possible."

Nuclear Arsenal Grows In U.S.

GENEVA (AP) — The United States disclosed Thursday its nuclear arsenal has increased 200 per cent in the two years that disarmament talks have droned on in Geneva.

Conceding that new efforts to get the talks moving have collapsed, U.S. negotiator William C. Foster declared that by next year U.S. strategic missile inventories "will reach approximately 750 per cent of those in 1962."

After an appeal to the Soviet Union to help end the disarmament stalemate, Foster left by plane for Washington to consult with his government. The Russians did not budge.

Foster said the United States could not overlook the security of the non-Communist world in view of the Soviet buildup in nuclear arms and the lack of agreement at Geneva.

Race On

"While we negotiate, the arms race goes on," Foster told the 17-nation disarmament conference. "Levels of armaments on both sides are increasing, almost without interruption — especially missiles which are capable of delivering nuclear warheads over long ranges.

"For example, United States strategic missile inventories have increased more than 200 per cent since our conference began March 1962. By 1965, these inventories will reach approximately 750 per cent of those in 1962."

Foster told the conference it must try to stop the nuclear buildup on both sides imediately. He appealed to Soviet negotiator Semyon K. Tsarapkin to enter into detailed negotiations on President Johnson's proposals to freeze missile production and development and halt the production of fissionable material for nuclear warheads.

Red Retort

The Soviet delegate replied: "A freeze will not have the effect of ending the arms race."

Tsarapkin insisted again that the conference begin immediate negotiations on the Soviet proposal to cut military budgets 10 to 15 per cent. He referred to increased military spending in Britain and West Germany and said this dangerous trend could only be stopped if the superpowers agreed on defense cuts.

Foster said the United States cannot undertake budget commitments and a discussion of the Soviet proposal would be futile.

Foster and Tsarapkin the conference cochairmen, reported failure to agree even on an agenda. Tsarapkin insists his budget proposal must be discussed first. The United States wants priority for its own proposals.

Miss Blatt Lead Off On Ballot

HARRISBURG (AP) — "Luck was a lady" Thursday as Genevieve Blatt, state internal affairs secretary, drew the top spot on the April 28 ballot for the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senate.

It all started Wednesday night when Mrs. Mabel Hoffman of Lancaster won first place in the Lancaster Toastmistress Club's annual speech contest with a discourse on "petticoat government."

"Mrs. Hoffman invited me to attend the meeting for luck because her speech dealt with women in government," said Miss Blatt.

"When she won, I thought I would invite her to Harrisburg for luck too, to draw for my place on the ballot."

Miss Blatt is seeking the nomination without organization support against Supreme Court Justice Michael A. Musmanno and David B. Roberts, Allegheny County prothonotary.

Musmanno, the organization candidate, placed third in the legal lottery.

State Treasurer Grace M. Sloan of Clarion, the Democratic Party's candidate for auditor general, placed last in a three-war race.

Former State Sen. Samuel G. Neff of Beaver Falls, won the first spot, followed by William D. Thomas of Sharon.

U.S. Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., running for re-election, took the top spot on the Republican ballot. His foe, W. Henry MacFarland, editor of the American Flag Committee newsletter in Philadelphia, was second.

'No Miracle' Foreseen In Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk dumped cold water Thursday on the idea of invading Communist North Viet Nam now. He said "no miracle in the north" is going to wipe out the Red guerrilas in South Viet Nam.

Rusk rejected also Senate Re-Dirksen's description of President Johnson's Viet Nam policy as an enigma. He disclosed the administration is putting together a comprehensive document on the Viet Nam situation.

The anti-guerrilla campaign in Southeast Asia was the central topic at Rusk's 30-minute news conference. Some U. S. officials, unhappy at failure to stampout the insurgents so far, have been urging that the war be carried north to the source of the Reds' strength.

Rusk noted that Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara will be going to Saigon shortly for an on-the-spot check, after which "we shall be in a position to make a fuller assessment of just where the situation is and where we go from here."

Ruby's Defense Labels Oswald Commie Assassin

DALLAS (AP) — An electronics engineer was selected Thursday as the ninth member of the jury to try Jack Ruby for the slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President Kennedy.

The trial began Feb. 17 and seven men and two women now have been accepted from among more than 100 candidates questioned. Twelve jurors are needed.

The ninth juror is James E. Cunningham, 34. He was educated at the University of Texas and he obviously gained favor with the defense when he said he had taken an introductory course in psychology there. Psychological testimony is expected to form the basis of an insanity defense for the 52-year-old Ruby.

Commie Ties

Earlier, the defense had placed renewed stress on Oswald's background, calling him a Communist assassin of the President.

Ruby faces a possible death penalty if convicted of murder with malice.

"Would you want to sit on the first jury in America to assess the death penalty for killing a Communist?" defense attorney Joe Tonahill demanded of C. B. Perkins, 26, a salesman who later was disqualified as a juror.

Judge Joe B. Brown sustained Dist. Atty. Henry M. Wade's objection and Perkins was not allowed to answer the question.

Oswald, charged with shooting President Kennedy on Nov. 22, admitted being a Marxist before he himself was shot to death two days later by Ruby. As far as is known, however, he was not a member of the Communist party.

Tonahill's question climaxed a series of references he has made in court to "the Communist Oswald." It foreshadowed one line of testimony which the defense intends to explore when it begins calling its witnesses.

It is the intent of the defense to portray Oswald as an evil and dangerous character, thus attempting to justify at least in part his death at the hands of Ruby, operator of a Dallas strip tease joint.

Peremptory Challenges

Both the state and the defense exercised peremptory challenges during the day to bar potential jurors from being seated without stating any reason.

The state excused Lawrence O. Greer, 25, a recent college graduate, who obviously proved tempting to the defense because of his expressed familiarity with psychiatry and abnormal psychology. The defense expects to lean heavily on experts in these two fields to bolster its claim that Ruby was insane when he shot Oswald.

The defense turned down Elizabeth B. James, a blue-eyed brunette housewife with two grown daughters who indicated some skepticism of insanity as a defense in a murder case.

The state now has 10 of its original 15 peremptory challenges left, while the defense has only three. If these are exhausted, jury candidates must be accepted unless the court disqualifies them on purely legal grounds.

Pupils Forget Color Want Negro Teacher Back

DUNDEE, Mich. (AP) — In fifth-grade scrawl, signed "Your friend," Cheryl Jennings wrote Prof. Samuel McDonald of Dundee community schools:

"I do hope you get better quick because we all want you to come back because we love you so much as our music teacher. So you do what the doctor says because we want you to get back with us. . . ."

The day before, tears trickled from the corners of his eyes as Samuel McDonald asked a reporter to:

"Tell the people of Dundee I appreciate the fine Christian spirit they have shown me and I will come back if they want me."

Cheryl's note is only one of a steady stream of more than a thousand McDonald has received. And Supt. Harry Nelson has a 1964-65 teaching contract already approved for him.

Few towns, large or small, ever were more concerned than Dundee about the fate of one man. This man is black and every one of Dundee's 2,377 citizens is white, and none knew him before he came last September to teach elementary music and direct the junior and senior high choruses.

Last Jan. 31, McDonald was driving to school from nearby Ann Arbor, where he lived. Suddenly his light car hit an ice-glazed patch of expressway and smashed into an overpass abutment.

The impact all but crushed the life out of McDonald. Already hospitalized a month, doctors estimate it will be three to four more months before he's out and about again.

In a hospital bill that soared above $2,500 before he was transferred to Veterans' Hospital at Ann Arbor this week, the charge for blood alone was $325. And the $2,500 doesn't cover doctors and around-the-clock nurses.

McDonald had only the $500 personal injury insurance that came with that on his automobile.

But now he has more. It is coming in pennies and nickels and dimes from the 1,750 pupils in Dundee's elementary and high schools, and in dollars from townspeople and teachers.

As of Wednesday, the amount had reached $680. More has been pledged and still more is expected.

Easton Council Bucks UC Bill

EASTON, Pa. (AP)—Easton's City Council voted 3 to 1 Thursday to oppose changes in Pennsylvania's Unemployment Compensation Act proposed by Gov. Scranton. The three Democrats voted for the resolution, the lone Republican against. Mayor George Smith, also a Democrat, was ill and did not attend the session.

Wanted Man Held In Philly

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Jesse James Gilbert, 38, wanted for bank robbery and murder in California, was held without bail for a further hearing Thursday by U.S. Commissioner William Bruno.

Gilbert, placed on the FBI's list of 10 most wanted men last month after the holdup and slaying at Alhambra, Calif., was seized on a northeast Philadelphia street Wednesday while disguised with a wig and horned rim glasses.

Pennsy To Buy 50 Locomotives

PHILADELPHIA (AP) A Pennsylvania Railroad executive said Thursday the PRR plans to spend $90 million this year for 50 new locomotives and more than 6,000 new freight cars.

David C. Bevan, chairman of the finance committee, said the PRR also will rehabilitate 7,500 or more cars, and plans to put over $30 million into improvements to roadway and operating facilities.

Speaking to the Financial Analysts of Philadelphia, Bevan said that "a decade of successful debt management has cleared the way for the Pennsylvania Railroad to invest more for new equipment in order to make money on increased business."

Citing that the railroad's debt has been reduced by a third of a billion dollars since 1952, Bevan said the PRR is now prepared to get more and more locomotives and cars over the next three years. The aim, he said, is "to bring our equipment up to a quality level comparable to that of any railroad in the United States."

Pittsburgh Gives Negroes Break

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—A system of "conscious preferment" in the hiring of Negro employes was announced Thursday by a spokesman for Pittsburgh public schools.

The spokesman explained the system was designed to make amends for past racial discrimination.

Dr. Robert I. Sperber, personal director for public schools here, said a Negro would be hired in preference to a white person in cases where the applicants are of equal ability.

Sperber said at a Board of Education news conference that of the school system's current 4,517 employes only 562 were Negroes. He added that the new hiring plan was a step toward providing equal rights.

He said the Negro has been in the same position in the public school system where Jews and Catholics were 25 years ago. He called this a throwback to a historic domination of white Protestants within the system.

Despite the new hiring practice, Sperber concluded much remains to be done in areas where the hiring of Negroes has been in imbalance.

Penn State Gets $200,000 Grant

WASHINGTON (AP)—Approval of a $200,000 grant to help Pennsylvania State University set up an educational television station at Clearfield, Pa., was announced Thursday by the Office of Education.

Total cost for the Channel 3 station, which will be a key link in a proposed statewide educational television network, is $700,221.

A central Pennsylvania population of 895,000, will be served by the Penn State station, including 707 institutions of learning with an enrollment of 444,986.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., who was advised of the action prior to a formal disclosure, also announced approval of these loans to help Pennsylvania Communities plan urban renewal projects:

Wilmerding, Allegheny County —$82,600 to plan a 168-acre project. The agency also reserved a $3,178,575 grant for work on the project.

Perkasie — A $38,789 loan to plan a two-acre project. The agency also reserved a $244,866 grant for work there.

Indiana — A $78,000 loan to plan a 37-acre project. Reserved was a $536,800 grant.

Food Fair Strike Now Mediated

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A federal mediator took a hand Thursday in trying to end a strike of clerks in 180 Food Fair stores in eastern Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey.

Harry Young, a commissioner of the Mediation and Conciliation Service, brought together for the first time representatives of management and the Retail Clerks International Association. The strike began in New Jersey Feb. 13.

Picketing spread to Trenton, N.J., Chester, Pa., and Wilmington, Del., Wednesday.

In all, about 4,000 employes are involved in the dispute over wages paid at discount department stores owned by Food Fair. Three of these are in New Jersey, one is in York, Pa.

The clerks say that a special wage rate in their contract for what are described as non-food attendants was intended to apply to employes of J. F. Fields, the subsidiary. Food Fair contradicts this.

The non-food rate in the clerks' contract is $1.25 an hour to start and $1.50 after a year. Food Fair has offered to pay $1.15 to start at the Fields stores, $1.25 after one year, and $1.50 after two years.

Theft Sites Revisited

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP)—State police took three men on a tour of this anthracite area Thursday in an effort to see if they could identify some business places they may have burglarized.

The three — plus two others held in an Allentown jail—are accused of more than 200 burglaries in 30 Pennsylvania counties since 1960.

Harry Witman, 33, and Gerald Wisser, 35, both of Harrisburg, and Michael Belicic, 23, Mechanicsburg R. D. 3, were brought to the nearby Wyoming state police barracks from regional state police headquarters in Harrisburg.

Held in the Lehigh County prison are Robert Wissler, 28, and William Drabenstadt, 30, both of Harrisburg.

Allentown police have slated all five on burglary, larceny and conspiracy charges.

Scranton Feuds With Paul Hugus

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton indicated this week the patronage authority of Allegheny County Republican chairman Paul Hugus is under a cloud because of a squabble for convention delegates.

The governor told his weekly news conference there has been "no determination" yet whether he would cut Hugus off from state job patronage.

Asked if there might be some action to remove Hugus as county chairman, Scranton said: "The chairmanship doesn't come up until June."

Hugus and Scranton have been at odds over the election of delegates from Allegheny County. Hugus is a backer of U.S. Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., for the GOP presidential nomination. Scranton wants an uncommitted Pennsylvania delegation.

Last week two Hugus allies were fired by the Scranton administration.

Hugus contended after the firings that they were political reprisals.

Scranton said he is looking into the dismissals, adding: "I haven't finished looking into it, but I assume the decision to dismiss will stand."

Scranton contended there was no personal clash between him and Hugus. 5

UC Bill Blasted By Mineworkers

HARRISBURG (AP) — The United Mine Workers of America contended Wednesday Gov. Scranton's proposed unemployment compensation revision plan would hurt "thousands of mine workers" in Pennsylvania.

The union issued its statement following a meeting here to make plans for opposing the unemployment compensation revision program.

The UMW adopted a resolution which said coal regions of Pennsylvania "are all in a state of depression and to deprecate the importance of unemployment compensation benefits to the entire economy is extremely shortsighted."

Meanwhile, the legislative advisory committee of the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women unanimously endorsed the Scranton plan at a meeting.

"We . . . agree wholeheartedly with Gov. Scranton that (his legislation) will correct abuses, put our unemployment compensation fund on a sound financial basis and attract more industry to Pennsylvania," the committee said in a statement.

THE BETRAYAL

Judas Iscariot held a position of high trust among the twelve Apostles. It was he who kept the purse and had charge of collecting the money that sustained Jesus and His followers in their travels about the countryside.

Blinded by greed, he went to the chief priests and asked them, "What are you willing to give me, and I will deliver Him to you? And they counted him out thirty pieces of silver. And from then on he was watching for an opportunity to betray Him." (Matthew XXVI: 14-16)

Although Judas had seen Christ perform many miracles and had lived with Him for three years, his faith was not strong enough to sustain him in history's most harrowing moment of temptation. 2-28

Resort Organizations Split On Divvy Of Proposed Funds

STROUDSBURG — Representatives of the Pocono Mountain Vacation Bureau and the Western Pocono Resort Assn., yesterday stated their cases for possible allotment of money for tourist promotion by the county commissioners.

The commissioners heard Eric Schuchard, VB president; John Calhoun, VB executive secretary, and Harry F. Lee, Stroudsburg attorney and member of the Vacation Bureau, and Withold Tilwick, who represented the Western Poconos Assn.

They were there because of a suggestion Schuchard had made to the commissioners about a grant for tourist promotion under a Pennsylvania law by which the commissioners can give no more than 10 cents per capita out of the general fund for such programs.

The commissioners decided that if they give any money at all, it will only be on the basis of the number of people over 21 in the county, not for the population as a whole.

Stanley Rader, commissioner chairman, said that such an allotment might be split up—so that the money given on the basis of those over 21 in the western townships of Polk, Ross, Eldred, Hamilton, and Chestnuthill would be given to the Western Resort Assn:

Tilwick said, "We are also working with the Carbon County Commissioners on tourist promotion. If the county is going to put out any money for such promotion, we feel that we are entitled to our share."

Rader then noted that the Vacation Bureau was the only recognized tourist promotion agency in the county.

Harry Lee then asked Tilwick what channels of promotion his organization used.

Tilwick handed Lee a brochure and said, "These are being sent out for general distribution — 15,000 were just printed."

Calhoun then said that "The Vacation Bureau is the only recognized promotion agency for Monroe County. The reason we receive state funds is because we are the designated agency. We promote the entire Pocono region, not just one section.

"We Are Growing'

"For instance, the New York Times supplement which will come out in April will give benefit to the entire county. The Western Poconos benefits because we are growing."

Tilwock then said, "We in the Western Poconos are looked as the illegitimate children of the county. William Altier and Eric Schuchard asked us to disband and incorporate in the Vacation Bureau. I want to make it clear that we received the same treatment from the Chamber of Commerce.

"We feel that this "Join and then we'll do something for you" attitude is unfair. Both you (the Vacation Bureau) and the Chamber of Commerce bypassed us. People in the Western Poconos feel that we have to fight for every penny we get."

Lee said, "I don't think these arguments are what the commissioners are interested in. The key question is to what extent the funds can best be used to benefit the county. The Vacation Bureau promotes the Poconos in general. I honestly think that the Vacation Bureau is best equipped to do the most good."

Chairman Rader then suggested that the money they had considered allocating for tourism might better be used in some other area such as trying to finish the airport at Mount Pocono.

Lee said, "The economy of this county turns on the resort and tourist industry here."

Rader argued that a good airport would help tourism, with the World's Fair coming up this year in New York. "Not that the money to the Vacation Bureau would be lost, by any means, but there are other worthy areas," Rader said.

Against Proposal

Stuart Pipher, a commissioner, asked members of the VB "If we allocated money, about $1,900, would you be willing to take the money that would be the western Pocono share and turn it over to the WPRA?"

Schuchard then said that at a recent vacation bureau meeting, "everyone was strictly against that."

"I don't see how splitting funds could have as much effect on keeping one organization doing a professional job," Calhoun said.

"I see the problem that the Eastern Poconos will want a share, and Mt. Pocono will ask for their share, and the funds would be so split up the vacation bureau would be left out entirely," Lee said.

Calhoun added that he would never like to see the WPRA disband, but would like to see it incorporate with the PMVB.

No further action on the issue was taken yesterday.

Area Surplus Food Program Viewed By State Officials

STROUDSBURG — Three state surplus food officials spoke yesterday with the Monroe County Commissioners on problems of administering the program.

Present were Robert Freiler, director of the state Bureau of Surplus Food; Claude Smith, food distribution representative for Wayne, Pike, and Monroe Counties; and Cameron Shelley, eastern field representative.

Freiler did all the talking.

Freiler handed Lester Brown, acting solicitor for the commissioners, copies of the new surplus food agreement which the board must sign to keep the program operative.

He said that he had cursorily examined Ray Saunders administration of the surplus food in the county. "It seems to be running well," he said.

"Last year $142,000 in surplus food was handed out to the needy in Monroe County, but the final responsibility for correct operation is vested in the county commissioners.

"Cumberland, Adams, Juniata, Perry and Pike Counties do not have surplus food programs —they are the only ones in the state. Some counties use the food stamp program."

Rader Interested

Chairman Stanley B. Rader said that he has long been interested in the stamp program.

"Under that system, the Dept. of Public Welfare determines eligibilty and the eligible are sent cards so that they may purchase stamps," Freiler said. "With stamps, they can go to any participating grocer, baker, or dairy and receive staples for their stamps. Dignity of the individual remains high, and the economy of the county is helped.

"Last year in the state, $43,000,000 in surplus food was given out. It came out to $5.69 per person per month for the value of commodities distributed," Freiler said.

He said that summer camps may participate in the surplus food program, and that it is just a continuation of school lunch programs. He said that the camps must be non-profit organizations, however.

"If we find out they are not non-profit organizations, we will file a claim against them for all the food they received in the past three years.

Eligibility Probe

He asked the commissioners to let his office know if they become suspicious of the eligibility of any camps and the state will check out their sponsoring organizations.

He also asked the commissioners to make sure that the county investigator keep checking people who get surplus food for eligibility.

Chairman Rader noted that many camps in the Poconos are now appealing property taxes levied against them, claiming that they are non-profit organizations and should not be taxed.

Freiler said that institutions, including camps, must now include proof of their tax-exempt status with their applications for surplus food.

He said that if camps lose their tax-exempt status, they are liable for a claim against them for the surplus food they used over three years as tax-exempt camps.

In other business, C. A. Nauman, chief assessor, said that his office might need extra help in the future due to the increased development of the county.

Miss Virginia Karsaramitsos of the Public Assistance office talked with the commissioners about possible changes in assistance for the aged when the additions are finished at the county home.

Joseph Small, mayor of Stroudsburg, talked with the board about insurance at the Stokes Mill swimming hole. He was called in as a consultant, noting that as mayor, he did not feel it was right for him to write any such insurance.

Sheriff Edward Metzger spoke to the board about raising the salary of Robert Brinn, who was recently appointed chief deputy. He also asked the board to hire Arthur Altemose of Stroudsburg as a full time employe at the county jail.

He said that the state had recommended more help at the jail.

Set Salaries

The board called in Warren Loney, county treasurer, and sat as the salary board. As such, they fixed Brinn's salary at $4,160 per year and Altemose's at $3,259.88.

They also hired Mabel Hovey as a registered practical nurse for thecounty home at $67 per week.

Also Irene V. McIntosh, Shawnee, from George McIntosh, Stroudsburg, indignities; Neil J. Lehto, Delaware Water Gap, from Helen E. Codet Lehto, Miami, Fla., desertion.

The divorce handed down Monday was for Emma B. Fasher Fairfield, 1155 Chipperfield Drive, Stroudsburg, from Thomas L. Fairfield, 1898 N. Fifth St., Stroudsburg.

Outside Registration In Barrett

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Commissioners yesterday decided to hold outside registration in Barrett Township and in Mount Pocono early in March for the April primary.

Both county party chairmen were contacted and were agreeable to the plan. Handbills announcing the registration in the two municipalities will be tacked up in conspicuous places about the municipalities, according to state statute.

On Tuesday, March 3, outside registration will be held at the Barrett schoolhouse from 6-9 p.m.

On Thursday, March 5, outside registration will be held at the Mount Pocono Municipal Building from 6-9 p.m.

The commissioners urged all eligible citizens to vote.

Monday, March 9, is the last day to register.

Spangenberg Bangor High Science King

BANGOR — William Spangenberg yesterday was named the grand champion of the Bangor Area High School's science fair for his "Study of Wave Phenomena" project.

He was named champion yesterday after taking first place in the Physics category of the fair.

Spangenberg is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Armon Williams of Bangor.

Other winners, by category and place, are:

Stroud Files Complaint On Fire Calls

HARRISBURG — The Stroud Township Volunteer Fire Co. charged yesterday in a complaint filed with Public Utility Commission in Harrisburg that "continuous" service malfunctions hinder fire calls through an area telephone network.

The company asked the PUC to investigte what it said were frequent interruptions in service at its firehouse in Poplar Valley.

It said the company supplying service to the Stroud Township area—the Commonwealth Telephone Co. of Dallas—has failed to respond to repeated requests for elimination of the inadequacies which have become "so acute we do not know when and if the telephone will work when we lift the receiver."

Dangers arising from the inability to originate network calls from the base phone are compounded by the fact that firemen cannot hear a siren because of mountainous terrain in the area, according to James A. Somers Jr., secretary of the firefighting organization.

Somers said the department has "reportedly contacted" A. W. Ryder, the company's district manager in Bangor, without any results.

The PUC said it would call on Commonwealth for an explanation and take "whatever action appears appropriate" after it is received.

Denies Complaint

A. W. Ryder, manager of Commonwealth Telephone Co. in Bangor, last night told The Daily Record, "My office has never received a complaint from the Stroud Twp. Fire Company. This company, like any telephone company, receives complaints from customers and there is a chance that at sometime or another one of the customers in that area who may have been a member of the fire company, made a complaint regarding his telephone."

He continued, "Had any of the officials of the fire company complained to us an investigation would have begun immediately and the end result would have been the best possible service."

Ryder also said he attempted to contact Mr. Somers Wednesday night but was unsuccessful.

He said, "necessary steps will be taken to investigate the charges."

Carpenters Local To Meet

STROUDSBURG — The carpenters local union, 501 of Monroe and Pike counties will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Central Labor Union Club in East Stroudsburg.

Charles L. Slutter, local president, said a luncheon will be served after the business meeting.

M. Bistranka Rites Conducted

MT. POCONO — A requiem high mass for Michael Bistranka, 88, of Snydersville was held Tuesday morning in St. Mary of the Mount Roman Catholic Church in Mt. Pocono. The Rev. John Walsh was the celebrant.

Burial was in St. Matthew Cemetery in East Stroudsburg. The William H. Clark Funeral Home in Stroudsburg was in charge of arrangements.

Tourist Promotion

The Monroe County commissioners have made it clear that they do not intend to levy any special tax to raise money for a contribution requested by the Pocono Mountain Vacation Bureau for tourist promotion and advertising.

They discussed the possibility of making a contribution for tourist promotion from money already in the county general fund and the possibility of figuring that contribution on the basis of the number of registered voters or the number of people over 21.

They could just as well figure such a contribution on the number of pine trees in Monroe County or the number of cows. But the contribution is limited by state law to ten cents for each of the 39,567 residents of Monroe County counted in the 1960 census, or $3,956.

Pennsylvania law clearly allows the commissioners to make such a contribution and there is no doubt that the Pocono Mountain Vacation Bureau could well use the funds for advertising and promotion.

But there are other county projects more in need of help from the commissioners at the moment than the vacation bureau.

The bureau received $25,000 from the Pennsylvania Tourist Promotion Agency during the year ending Aug. 31, 1963. It will probably get as much state aid or more in the present fiscal year.

The Pocono Mountain Vacation Bureau received one of the largest amounts of state aid for tourist promotion in Pennsylvania in 1963.

The bureau's $117,085 budget for the year ending Aug. 31, 1963, was, we believe, well spent. Its advertising program and promotion through news articles, photographs, maps, brochures, information booths and other projects have brought new and increasing business to the entire Pocono Mountain area. That in turn has helped the economy of this resort region.

The vacation bureau has accomplished a major success by its spearheading of the New York Times supplement on the Pocono Mountains which will come out April 26 and be read by 1,400,000 people across the nation.

If the vacation bureau were an infant organization trying to get on its feet, or if it needed county aid for a new or special project, its argument for aid from the county would be stronger. But it is a flourishing and successful organization.

We think money the county commissioners have been asked to contribute for tourist promotion is more urgently needed in other county projects today.

Airport Promotion

One project which the Monroe County commissioners should continue to assist financially is the Pocono Mountains Airport at Mt. Pocono.

If this airport, with its half-finished hangar and maintenance building, can have that building finished with suitable waiting room facilities as soon as possible, it will directly improve the Pocono Mountain resort and industrial economy.

The airport is already attracting a substantial number of private, tourist, business and military airplanes.

Once it is properly equipped with a utility hangar, modest terminal facilities, and hangars for rental, it will be even more useful to the resorts, businesses and industries of the Pocono Mountains.

Commissioner Chairman Stanley Rader suggested yesterday that money sought by the Pocono Mountain Vacation Bureau for tourist promotion—the commissioners discussed allocation of from $1,888 to the legal limit of $3,956—could better be used for completion of the airport facilities.

We agree with him.

Right now, the commissioners have been asked to foot the bill for building a new access road into the airport which may cost from $1,900 to $2,100. Once that road is completed, the Federal Aviation Agency will release $24,962 it has been withholding from the airport.

The former county board of commissioners agreed to reimburse Coolbaugh Township for the cost of the new road, and we hope the new board of commissioners will stick to that agreement.

The county commissioners have been giving the airport authority $10,000 a year for three years to help pay off its debt for construction of runways and to help finish the utility hangar.

We believe the county should continue to make that contribution, and consider further aid for airport facilities when the airport authority adopts a specific plan for finishing the present hangar building and operating the airport in the future.

This is a project which the whole county and every business interest in the county and the Pocono Mountain area will profit from.

No Poor Experience

By George Dixon

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 — President Johnson appointed Sargent Shriver to run the war against poverty. Apart from the incongruity of putting a Sargent in charge of a war, the President picked a commander with no firsthand knowledge of the enemy.

If experience counts for anything in Government, the appointment should have gone to me. I'm a thousand times more familiar with poverty than Eunice Kennedy's husband.

I can qualify as a leading authority without ever leaving home. Shriver doesn't have the connections to learn about poverty. Even his wife couldn't tell him about it.

My qualifications are as the sands of the sea. Let me enumerate just a few:

1. I start each day with a poverty of ideas.

2. I resort to threadbare gags.

3. I don't need to take Metrecal to be in reduced circumstances.

If President Johnson required further proof of my fitness and aptitude, all he has to do is call up a few people to whom I have owed some money since 1926. Moreover, I am in tune with the times. Officeholders are being urged to list their assets. If appointed Chief of Poverty I will list my assets on the head of a pin.

If I don't get the post, Shriver had better beware. I might go out to Chicago and open a Poverty Mart.

I may not be as poverty-stricken as Marc Antony, who asked people to lend him their ears, but I possess a poverty of spirit that should make me an ideal bureaucrat. I would rather be in twisted circumstances and straitened out, then be in straitened circumstances and twisted out.

LBJ should be advised that, if necessary, I will campaign for the job. I have a wealth of campaign slogans: "Grinding Poverty Makes You Sharp", "There's Poverty Enough for All", "If You're Financially Embarrassed, Don't Blush", and "Take a Pauper to Lunch."

In the campaign, I pledge to kiss a poor baby. For this I am superlatively equipped. Few people make such a poor mouth.

I will also strive to give poverty snob appeal. At every Washington social and diplomatic affair I will plant a token pauper to create a shabby image. I will invite Mme. Alphand, wife of the French Ambassador, to toast our token pauper, and acclaim him with huzzahs of "Let Him Eat Cake."

"I have ingenious ideas for popularizing destitution with pageantry. I will stage a monster Ugly Pageant, the winner to be crowned on the front stoop of Bobby Baker's town house, "Miss Indigent of 1964."

In cancelling out Shriver, and substituting a good journeyman traveling like me, President Johnson can do himself a political favor, too. I hear that LBJ would like Shriver for Vice President. A guy who has hopes of being tapped for a Vice Presidential nomination can't afford to be tied down to a job. He's got to keep himself flexible, so he can leave in the middle of the night if he gets a hurry-up call to come to Atlantic City during the Democratic National Convention on, or about, Aug. 24.

Betting On Time

Harrisburg — Reporter's Notebook:

The Bets Are On! — Will it actually be mid-March — or won't it?

The question has been the butt of some quite heated debate and discussion on Capitol Hill this week, centering around whether GOP legislative leaders will indeed bring the administration's controversial unemployment compensation revision program to a showdown vote in the Senate by mid-March — or not.

Various GOP legislative leaders earlier had mentioned the possibility of a showdown next month — but it remained for Governor Scranton to give the "official" administration word on the much-discussed mid-March possibility, when he said, in guest writing in this column yesterday on the UC problem:

"At the moment we are aiming for a showdown vote in the Senate by March 17."

The point of debate now is whether the administration and allied legislative leaders actually will try to move the UC legislative reform hitterly opposed by labor, to the pre-primary showdown or whether it will be forced to hold off until after the election.

Many a GOP lawmaker up for re-election this year strongly and vibrantly opposes the forcing of an expression or stand on the touchy and explosive subject until after the primary — while others don't want a show at all until after the fall general elections! . . . It's that sticky a subject.

Privately many a GOP lawmaker is singed to the gills at the Governor for what they feel is his putting them on the spot — the hot seat — in this election year of all election years, by even bringing up the subject in discussions, let alone in a legislative showdown!

School "Dropout" Study — School districts throughout Pennsylvania may now join the State's dropout project currently under way with preschool classes in the Centennial Joint School District in Lower Bucks County, according to the Department of Public Instruction.

The project is supported by a $471,000 Ford Foundation grant and is the first effort of the State Council for Human Services.

Members of the DPI project staff have visited various Area Curriculum Centers to outline and discuss the manner by which other school districts in the state may take part. Additional plans for presentations in other Area Curriculum Centers throughout the state are under way, the department notes.

Going To The Dogs . . . — Any idea how many licensed pooches there are in Pennsylvania?

If you want something to bark about, mull over the fact that, according to the State Department of Agriculture which has charge of Pennsylvania's dog law enforcement program, last year a total of 752,556 individual dog licenses were issued! . . . As for professional caretaking "kennels", a whooping 5758 of these canine "institutions" were licensed during the year.

Interestingly too perhaps, revenue from dog and kennel licenses — plus fines resulting from 858 prosecutions — amounted to $1,011,001 . . . Owners responsible for damage paid $5308 in claims while state agents investigated 769 damage claims totaling $45,160.

Upcoming In Pennsylvania—March 3 and 4, York, Basil Rathbone, York Symphony Orchestra . . . March 4, Jewish Temple, Erie, lecture: Comm. Stephen P. Kennedy . . . March 2-7, Harrisburg, Central Pennsylvania Builder's Show . . . March 7, Country Auction, Pennsylvania Dutch Americana, at Intercourse (Lancaster County) . . . Leaping Maine Lady

By Richard Spong
Editorial Research Reports

WASHINGTON — Saturday, Feb. 29 is Leap Day, the intercalcalary day in the Gregorian calendar.

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me.) on Friday receives the "Minute Man" award of the Reserve Officers Association at a Washington banquet.

The honor is appropriate; as the ranking Republican member of the Senate Armed Services Committee and its Preparedness Investigating and Officer Grade Limitation subcommittees, Sen. Smith is being designated the "citizen who has contributed most to national security" in the past year.

She holds the rank of Lieutenant Colonel in the U.S. Air Force Reserve.

The occasion would be even more appropriate if the R.O.A. had seen fit to postpone its annual thirst slaking one day, so that it might fall on Leap Day.

For on Jan. 27 Mrs. Smith took a plunge no other American woman is likely to equal this Leap Year when she made a big splash by jumping into the Republican Presidential race.

Hard Campaign

The leap year lady is campaigning hard in New Hampshire, but only when she can be spared from Senate business.

In a kind of happy camaraderie, she makes some of her journeys from Washington in the plane of one of her principal opponents, Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.), who ranks her in the Air Force Reserve but is her junior in the Senate.

In mid-campaign, however, she had made only one reference to Goldwater, and that was an oblique one that could be construed as favorable. Her other chief opponent, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, she never mentions.

She has been quoted as "happily surprised at the warmth of the reception" in the Granite State.

First Woman

The senator from Maine is the first woman to go for a major party nomination for President. Two others who made the race — Mrs. Belva Ann Lockwood and Victoria Claflin Woodhull—were nominees of the Equal Rights Party, a woman suffrage outfit.

Mrs. Smith is the heroine of a Horatio Alger story. She has been a sales girl in a five-and-dime store, a telephone operator, a school teacher, a weekly newspaper circulation manager, and author of a nationally syndicated column.

She was first elected to the House of Representatives in 1940 to fill the vacancy caused by her husband's death and continued to serve there until 1948, when she easily won her seat in the Senate.

She serves on the Appropriations and Space Committees as well as Armed Services. Her biography in the Congressional Directory (the lawmakers write these themselves) reads simply: "Margaret Chase Smith, Republican."

Middle Ground

Mrs. Smith seems to be seizing a broad middle ground as a candidate. She disagrees with Goldwater on TVA, social security, aid to education, and selective service, but she voted with him against the nuclear test ban. She said of Gov. Rockefeller in announcing she'd run, "One candidate has been welcoming me by words, but not by actions."

One legend traces the custom of women proposing in Leap Year to an authorization by St. Patrick. As it happens, Mrs. Smith's proposal will be weighed by New Hampshire voters (she is running in the Presidential preference primary, without a slate of delegates) on March 10, just a scant week before St. Patrick's natal day.

Lost Soul

It seems little Margie had been playing for some time with a group of little boys and naturally she assumed all their mannerisms, including swear words. Her mother admonished that the next time she used a bad word she would have to leave home.

Well, it happened, and her mother said "O.K., Margie, pack your bag; we don't want you around here any more. And here's a dime for carfare."

So Margie packed her little bag and proceeded to leave home. She went as far as the front stoop and there she sat disconsolately. Finally her mother peeked out of the door and said, "Margie, it's getting dark, you'd better go. Why aren't you on your way?"

"I don't know where the hell to go," Margie replied.

In spite of what you hear over the snowbank, organized crime is not gaining in this country. In 1960 the Justice Dept. obtained 45 convictions of racketeers and others in the organized crime category. In 1963 we got 288 convictions. There were 45 individuals indicted in 1960 and 615 last year. A solid accomplishment for Robert Kennedy.

New Chiefs?

Paul Scott

WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary McNamara is going to South Viet Nam next week for the grave purpose of initiating a crucial change in the long and faltering struggle against Communist aggression.

Under this far-reaching proposal, the U. S. would take over command control from top to bottom of South Viet Nam combat forces.

As formulated by the Joint Chiefs of Staff and approved by President Johnson, this momentous plan calls for establishment of joint U.S.-Viet Nam commands from army to company levels with U. S. officers having the deciding voice.

If Major General Nguyen Khanh, Viet Nam's "strongman," agrees to this drastic reorganization, Lieutenant General William Westmoreland will assume overall command of this costly and indecisive war. He was recently named deputy to General Paul Harkins, U. S. commander in Viet Nam. Harkins would be shifted to another command or retired.

Should Khanh balk, Secretary McNamara will notify him that this will leave President Johnson no alternative but to "review" this country's heavy commitment to Viet Nam — a clearcut warning that the U.S. may be compelled to seek a political rather than a military solution to the anti-Red conflict.

The implications of a possible "political solution" will not be discussed by McNamara. Presumably, that is the province of the State Department.

The U. S. now has around 15,000 military personnel in Viet Nam acting as advisers and trainers. They can propose but not command. As a consequence, their suggestions and recommendations are frequently disregarded, particularly when they entail aggressive action against the enemy.

That is deemed a key cause for the adverse trend of the Viet Nam conflict.

The First Step—This vital problem was stressed by Secretary McNamara at a backstage meeting with congressional leaders to brief them on his impending trip.

The defense chief explained the principal difficulty in forcefully pressing the war is inducing the Vietnamese to take the offensive against the Communists and to hold on to strategic areas after they have been liberated.

It is for this reason that the Johnson administration decided to ask for command control of Vietnamese forces. With the aggressive leadership it is felt U. S. officers and non-coms will provide, there is every confidence Vietnamese troops will prove more than a match against the Viet Cong.

McNamara would not express an opinion on how General Khanh is likely to react to this far-reaching proposal.

Similarly, McNamara told the congressional leaders that no decision has yet been made on carrying the war to North Viet Nam—by aerial attacks on depots, supply routes and other targets, and by guerilla raids.

Such plans have been discussed, but nothing has been done about them pending the outcome of McNamara's talks with Khanh.

It was emphasized by McNamara that such a fateful decision would be made only by President Johnson.

What The Joint Chiefs Say—General Maxwell Taylor, head of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, does not believe Red China will intervene if the conflict is carried to North Viet Nam.

This explosive question was put squarely up to him by Representative Daniel Flood, D-Pa., at a closed-door meeting of the House Appropriations Committee. Taylor had explained that he has made no recommendations as yet on taking the war to North Viet Nam.

"Do you believe the Chinese Communists would intervene either openly or with so-called volunteers if we should blockade North Viet Nam and send guerrillas there?" asked Flood.

"No, I do not," replied Taylor.

General Curtis LeMay, Air Chief of Staff, was considerably more emphatic when asked the same question by Flood.

"I have recommended that we take the war to North Viet Nam both in the air and on the ground," declared the one-time bomber commander. "That is the only way we can win this struggle. As long as the Viet Cong are protected and supplied from a privileged sanctuary such as North Viet Nam, we will never be able to stop their guerrilla penetration of South Viet Nam. The only answer is to give them a big dose of the same medicine they are dishing out to us."

Congressional leaders have been told sharp difference of view exists among the Joint Chiefs over a naval blockade because of the great length of the North Viet Nam coastline.

It is argued this presents severe difficulties. Much is being made of the argument that during the Korean war, U. S. efforts to blockade North Korea were largely ineffectual because of its extended coastline.

Dear Abby

He's Powerful

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: When my daughter was in college, she eloped with a 6-foot-2, eyes-of-blue football star. We were upset at first, but got over it. Here's the problem. Every time they stay over night with us, I have to air out all the bedding afterwards. My son-in-law has a very obnoxious odor to his feet. It about knocks you over. It penetrates the mattress and blankets, too. The sheets I can launder. I've asked my daughter to tell him to do something about it and she says there is nothing he can do. He washes his feet twice a day and wears only white socks. She said he had some kind of jungle fungus while he was in the Marines, but he's over that now. For a girl who couldn't stand the good clean odor of onions cooking, this takes the cake! Love isn't only blind — it smells. What do you suggest?

MIDWEST MOM

DEAR MOM: Your son-in-law needs desperately to see a doctor! And if he hasn't sense enough to go voluntarily, find somebody who is 6-foot-3 to drag him there.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old girl who has been going wit a 19-year-old college sophomore since September. He is only 5 ft. 4, and I am 5 ft. 3 in flats. My problem is that he has asked me to go to the Junior-Senior Prom with him. I know I have gone out on dates with him to many other things, but I don't want to be escorted to this important affair by a boy who is so short. I'm afraid we will look like a couple of midgets walking in. I don't know how to refuse him without hurting his feelings. Can you help me?

WISH HE WERE TALLER

DEAR WISH: Since you found this boy tall enough to date on other occasions, there is no way to refuse his prom invitation without hurting his feelings. If his size bothers you, quit dating him entirely, and let him find a girl who measures a man from his eyebrows up!

DEAR ABBY: I read in your column that a girl and her boy friend had a fight because they didn't know who should hang up the telephone first. Maybe this will help. My boy friend and I count one-two-three, together, and then we both hang up.

Speaking Of Your Health:

Premature Babies Do Well

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

The past ten years have ushered in a period of great progress for the survival and growth of premature infants.

Any infant born before 36 weeks of pregnancy must be considered as being premature, and deserves the additional safeguards of a highly specialized "preemy" team.

Also classified as a premature infant is the bady whose birth weight is less than five and a half pounds, even though the pregnancy has lasted the full nine months.

"Most premature infants now have a good chance to live and develop to healthy maturity." This significant statement was made by Dr. Charles Bauer, Director of the Premature Institute of the New York Hospital Cornell Medical Center.

Plan In Action

When a premature infant is born in New York City, in any hospital where there is no special premature ward, a coordinated plan of activity is immediately set in motion.

A "preemy" ambulance is immediately sent to the hospital, with specially equipped carriers to speed the infant to one of a number of Premature Centers.

Everything Available

At the New York Hospital, one of a group of similar centers, every conceivable device is available for the safety and the exquisite care of these tiny infants.

Interlaced with the standard and routine hospital procedures is the constant awareness of the infant's emotional needs. During this period of separation from the mother, the "preemy" is given loving attention by the specially trained nurses and personnel.

Mothers are encouraged by the knowledge that their premature babies are not necessarily fragile or destined to be chronically ill.

Hospitals all over the country are availing themselves of the experiences acquired by the "preemy" centers in New York. By instituting similar methods and techniques, thousands of newborn infants will now survive the rigors of prematurity.

MEDICAL MYTHS

Time may change the "infinite variety" of superstitions and myths about medicine, but some emerge unscathed. "Catarrh," "biliousness," "acid indigestion," "thin blood," and "dyspepsia" have withstood the onslaught of knowledge. They remain fixed as definite descriptions of indefinite symptoms.

Vague Terms

These vague terms loosely applied to unexplainable illnesses are a temptation for those who wish to avoid the confirmation or denial of an illness by an authority.

As long as these imprecise titles survive, the underlying disease may continue to flourish without any diagnosis, treatment or cure.

Obscure terms for obscure symptoms obscure the underlying causes and interfere with complete health.

Stories Behind Words

by William S. Penfield

To Bury the Hatchet

One of the American Indians' chief weapons was the tomahawk — a light ax, or hatchet.

For centuries the Indians made their tomahawks of stone or copper, but these were replaced by iron ones traded to the Indians by the whites.

Since it was a principal weapon, the Indians regarded the tomahawk, or hatchet, as a symbol of war. When two warring tribes decided to make peace, representatives of each tribe gathered and performed a ceremony in which a hatchet was buried as a symbol that hostilities had ceased.

From this ceremony came the expression "to bury the hatchet," meaning to end a quarrel or dispute.

Injunction Slapped On Local Man

STROUDSBURG — An ex perte injunction (a restraining order) has been issued against Arnold C. Eschenbach of 403 N. Eighth St., Stroudsburg and John A. Robbins Co., Philadelphia, by Monroe County president judge Fred W. Davis in behalf of the American Casualty Co. of Reading.

The injunction was filed Wednesday in the office of Frank Smith, Monroe County prothonotary.

The request for the injunction claims that Robbins was given a contract for an addition to the Inn at Buck Hill Falls and sublet the contract to Arnold Eschenbach on May 27, 1963.

$26,000 Claim

The American Casualty Co. posted Performance, Labor and Material bonds for Robbins and Eschenbach. It now claims that claims for unpaid labor and material totals $26,000.

The injunction request asked the court to restrain Eschenbach from receiving or converting property into funds. It also asks to restrain Robbins from paying to Eschenbach any further money, and upon preliminary hearing, asks that Robbins be required to make an accounting of the exact amount of money due.

Upon final hearing, the injunction request asks, money should be given to American Casualty to exonerate it from any liability under its bonds.

The injunction was then granted by Judge Davis, and a preliminary hearing was set for Monday, March 2, in the courthouse. An injunction bond of $5,000 was filed by American Casualty.

Monroe Taxpayers To Save $1,655,000

NEW YORK — How much more moeny will residents of Monroe County have in their pockets this year, thanks to the reduction in taxes? To what extent will the local economy move ahead, as a result?

Some people will benefit more than others. In general, there will be bigger cuts in the tax rates for those with large incomes than for those in the lower brackets.

However, the tax cuts granted to those with moderate to low incomes will be very effective as they will be coupled with a new "minimum standard deduction" of $400 for husband and wife.

In Monroe County, the average saving this year will be approximately $131 per family, it is estimated. This is based on gross earnings, before payment of taxes, which averaged $7,830 per household locally last year.

For a married couple with two children, with an income equal to the local average, the the new Federal tax will be $885, following the cut of $131.

In the case of a family with two dependents and with gross earnings of $10,000, the tax will be $1,280, which is $165 below the present amount.

For those in the $4,000-a-year class, the new tax will be $220. That is $68 less than before.

The total amount that will be saved in Monroe County during the first year, based on the way income is distributed locally, will be approximately $1,655,000.

This money, the Government hopes, will quickly find its way to the market place and give business an extra push forward.

Consumer buying would increase, moving merchandise off retail store shelves. That, in turn, would mean that stores would have to place new orders with wholesalers, who would pass them on to factories.

Thus, the Government feels, the added money put into circulation because of the tax cut will build up on itself, producing a cumulative effect several times as large as the original amount.

More Job Opportunities

Nationally, it looks for more jobs opportunities to be created and for the high unemployment rate to be reduced.

The first concrete evidence of the tax cut will be visible in Monroe County in a short while. Paychecks will reflect a withholding rate of 14 per cent instead of 18 per cent.

Pen Argyl School Moves Questioned

PEN ARGYL — A large group of dissatisfied parents turned up at a Pen Argyl School Board meeting this week to question some recent actions and decisions by William Madden, supervising principal.

The questions ranged from the recent controversy over the use of the school auditorium as a study hall to why the administration saw fit to add one-half hour to the school day.

The parents queried the board why there was "friction" in the system's schools — a place, they said, that has been friction-free in the past.

The board passed the complaint off as an administration problem and not a function of the board.

James Tinney, board president, said it was Madden's responsibility to formulate a workable school policy and present it for board approval. Board members said new policies were being instituted in the school — "policies that will guide us and help us make a better school."

Madden said that policies consistent with the state board of education directives had to be established if Pen Argyl "was to have an accredited school."

"A happy school is necessary if the children are to learn," Jack Branton, Pen Argyl policeman, pointed out. He also suggested that a committee of teachers and pupils should be formed to meet with the board and discuss the problem.

"Happy To Meet"

Branton was told that members of the board would "be happy to meet with such a committee."

Mrs. Olga Bickford, a school director, said "we want the parents to back us up because we are working hard to improve things and make a good school system."

Madden concluded by saying, "I will not always react in a way pupils or parents will like. I will react in the way I think best. By doing this I am an administrator. If I didn't do this I would be a puppet."

He said he was striving to institute a program that would "be second to none in the state for school of this size."

"I would appreciate it if you give me the benefit of doubt. Come to the school and see me; see the teachers, or see the high school principal," Madden said.

He pointed out that a public information meeting would be held at which time proposed curriculum changes in the school would be outlined.

The balance in the athletic fund as of Feb. 17, was reported as $9,881.40 with the balance in the general fund as of Feb. 24, $15,621.38. Bills for the athletic fund totaling $477.65 and $54,932.48 against the general fund were ordered paid by the board.

The board approved Harry Bray as head baseball coach at a salary of $400 per year.

Homebound instruction was approved for Robert Harris of 202 Heller Ave. during his confinement in the hospital.

New Helper Named

Mrs. Barbara Trexler resigned as helper in the Pen Argyl Area Joint School cafeteria and was replaced by Mrs. Margaret Argust of 401 Mountain Ave. at a rate of $1 per hour.

The board approved the purchase of a food freezer to be used in the Wind Gap Elementary school cafteria from the Ace Hotel and Bar Supply Co. Inc. of Allentown at a cost not to exceed $475.

The board adopted a resolution to approve a plan for the organization of the vocational technical school program of Northampton County which will result in the consolidation of the two area organizations of Northampton County. This was adopted by the Pennsylvania State Board of Vocational Education on March 22, 1961, into one administrative unit, and that the unit be organized, established and operated by the Northampton County school board as provided in section 1841 of the Pennsylvania School Code.

The board decided to let its solicitor James Charron offer his opinion on public school sponsored baccalaureate services since the recent Supreme Court decision pertaining to Bible reading has caused some confusion on the issue.

County Boroughs, Townships Keep Spending Below Income

HARRISBURG — Monroe County's four boroughs and 16 second class townships are keeping expenditures below income.

This was indicated today in a just completed detail survey of the operations of political subdivisions in Pennsylvania's 67 counties by the State Department of Internal Affairs for the year 1962.

The statistical mass assembled by the department shows that the 20 political subdivisions of the county had total revenue receipts for the year of $1,447,906 while expenditures amounted to $850,526. However, the expenditure figure did not include $450,227 in capital outlay.

Here is the breakdown of revenue receipts for the year for the various municipalities within the county, with expenditures for the year noted in parenthesis:

BOROUGHS — Delaware Water Gap, $27,521 ($18,128 expenses); East Stroudsburg, $109,535 ($224,681); Mount Pocono, $29,063 ($23,011); Stroudsburg, $330,303 ($243,932).

TOWNSHIPS — Barrett, $89,721 ($63,713); Chestnuthill, $13,664 ($12,851); Coolbaugh, $34,447 ($14,985); Eldred, $18,198 ($10,338); Hamilton, $54,608 ($34,114); ackson, $21,538 ($8,977); Middle Smithfield, $43,383 ($16,792);

Paradise, $40,058 ($25,651); Pocono, $49,956 ($17,839); Polk, $39,480 ($14,638); Price, $7,939 ($3,367); Ross, $21,539 ($12,557); Smithfield, $34,419 ($16,282); Stroud, $96,450 ($63,925); Tobyhanna, $29,672 ($18,470); Tunkhannock 26,422 ($8,320).

Capital outlay expenses for county municipalities were as follows:

BOROUGHS — Delaware Water Gap, $10,478; East Stroudsburg, $108,341; Mount Pocono, $6,882; Stroudsburg, $70,086.

TOWNSHIPS — Barrett, $35,879; Chestnuthill, $19,376; Coolbaugh, $12,853; Eldred, $9,153; Hamilton, $17,631; Jackson, $10,636; Middle Smithfield, $14,123;

Paradise, $19,045; Pocono, $21,905; Polk, $17,842; Price, $2,012; Ross, $9,649; Smithfield, $14,421; Stroud, $33,013; Tobyhanna, $11,542; Tunkhannock, $5,357.

New Strike-Halting Ideas Seen By Phone Industry

PHILADELPHIA — Labor and industry's newest formula to avert costly strikes and reduce union - management conflict was adopted yesterday for the first time in the telephone industry in Pennsylvania.

The Bell Telephone Co. and the Federation of Telephone Workers of Pennsylvania jointly announced formation of a joint study committee to explore issues and problems of mutual concern in an atmosphere removed from the pressures of collective bargaining and specific grievance handling.

The eight - member committee will include four members of the union's executive board and four high-level company representatives.

Joint study committees have demonstrated their value and effectiveness in many other industries, notably glass, steel, canning, rubber and electrical manufacturing.

The Federation - Bell plant joint study committee will review and study subjects agreed on and referred to it by the regular company - union joint bargaining committee. All sessions will be on an "off-the-record" basis with no minutes to be kept and no reference to committee activities permitted in regular contract negotiations, grievance sessions or arbitration proceedings.

No Final Decisions

The committee will not make final decisions or conclude agreements. It will, however, make recommendations in connection with its reports of findings to the joint bargaining committee.

The memorandum of agreement which formally established the joint study committee may be terminated by either party on 90-day written notice.

W. S. Leary, president of the federation which represents approximately 9,700 Bell company plant department employees throughout the state, stressed the point that the work of the joint study committee will not substitute for contract bargaining and grievance handling.

W. W. Kinkel Bell Co. assistant vice president for labor relations, pointed out that the joint study committee will work away from the "formalized atmosphere" of bargaining sessions under pressure which are normally marked by demands, concessions and deadlines.

"The various kinds of formal and informal information distributed before, during and after bargaining do not lend themselves to the kind of approach that is needed for the problems to be faced today in the future," Kinkel said.

Both company and union spokesmen agreed the joint study committee provides an opportunity for each to gain a mutually beneficial understanding and appreciation of the problems of the other.

Greene Twp. Planners Seek Office

NEWFOUNDLAND — A petition from the Greene Township Planning Commission, asking for use of a room in the school for meetings and storage of planning materials was heard by Greene and Dreher Township School Boards meeting at the school with J. Robert Burdick presiding.

The board tabled the request until further information could be gathered.

Eight parents of secondary school students now attending the Wallenpaupack Area Joint School which opened earlier this month, discussed with the board the problems arising from crowded buses, the code of dress, and the cafeteria in the new school.

Present for the session were Charles Phillips, Claude Butler, J. Robert Burdick and Carlyle Schmalzle from Dreher Township; Harry Schoenagel, Bruce Banks, Evelyn Haldaman and Peggy Bancroft from Greene Township.

Public Aid Rolls Higher

HARRISBURG (AP) — The average number of persons on public assistance in Pennsylvania increased for the third consecutive month last January, the Public Welfare Department reported last week.

The January figures stood at 448,758, the department said, 13,301 over the December, 1963, average.

3 Deeds Filed At Courthouse

STROUDSBURG — Three deeds were filed yesterday in the office of Mrs. Jeannette Batory, Monroe County recorder.

They were Pocono Lakeshore, Inc., to Irvin V. Gomes, 54 Ashland Ave., West Orange, N.J., property at Pocono Lakeshores; Lillian A. and Edward Suden, 61-46 165th St., Flushing, L.I., N.Y., to Eugene F. and Mildred Comunal, Stroud Township, property in Stroud Twp.

Also Edward J. and Lucie M. Somers, Stroudsburg, to John J., Jr., and Roseanne V. Sysko, Bethlehem, RD 1, property in Stroudsburg.

Rural Route Openings For Mailmen

EAST STROUDSBURG — Civil service examinations for rural route mail carriers will be accepted until March 24, at post offices in East Stroudsburg and Canadensis, according to the U.S. Civil Service Commission in Washington.

Commission regulations state all applicants must take a written test and they must have lived within the delivery area of the post office for one year immediately preceding the closing date of the examination.

In addition, they must have reached their 18th birthday on the closing date for acceptance of applications. There is no maximum age limit. However, persons who have passed 70 may be considered only for temporary limited appointments of one year.

The commission will process applications without regard to race, creed, color, or national origin.

Complete information about the examination requirements and instructions for filing applications may be obtained from the Canadensis and East Stroudsburg post offices.

Application forms must be filed with the U. S. Civil Service Commission in Washington and must be postmarked no later than March 24.

Navy Recruiter's Hours In S-burg

STROUDSBURG — The Navy recruiter will be at the Stroudsburg Post Office every Monday and Friday from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Anyone desiring any information on Navy enlistment, officer programs, Wave enlistments or any other information can contact the local Navy Recruiter at the above dates and times. They may also contact the Easton, Pa., office.

Rep. Rooney In Agreement On Apportionment Verdict

WASHINGTON — Rep. Fred B. Rooney, of the 15th congressional district yesterday issued the following statement concerning the Supreme Court's decision on Congressional apportionment:

"I am in complete agreement with the Court's pronouncement that the vote of every citizen should count equally. The Court's decision came as no surprise to members of the Congress.

"Since my district — the 15th of Pennsylvania — is the smallest in our State, any reapportionment would logically increase its size, thus affecting the 15th more than most others in Pennsylvania.

"The major conflict in any discussion involving such redistricting always revolves, finally, around whether Congressional districts should cross County lines. When this is necessary, I see nothing wrong with it, providing the district lines follow areas which are geographically contiguous and include areas whose interests and needs are basically common.

"I believe that, although some question exists in the minds of experts on Constitutional law as to the Court's actual role in such matters, this decision was inevitable. In far too many states, the decision on redistricting has been left to the partisan manipulations of State legislatures.

"Against Good Government"

"Attempts to gerrymander or manipulate districts purely for for the political advantage either party are distinctly against the grain of good American government.

"The Court's action, therefore, seems to increase the possibility of fair, equitable apportionment so that the vote of any man or woman in any area will weigh as heavily as that of another.

"That should meet with the approval of every citizen and I am confident it will."

Dr. Kopenhaver Attends Parley

STROUDSBURG — Dr. William C. Kopenhaver, Stroudsburg, foot specialist, attended a three day seminar devoted to new developments in foot care sponsored by the Podiatry Society of the State of New York

Over 2,000 foot specialists from the United States and Canada attended the sessions that stressed regular foot examinations as an important aspect of the family health program.

FIRST MEETING — The recently appointed Monroe County Planning Commission discusses organization at its first official meeting held in the courthouse, Stroudsburg. Conferring are from left foreground Stanley Rader and John Price, Monroe County commissioners; Mrs. Grace Palmer; Chester Miller; Joseph Lisicky, executive secretary and treasurer; John Mills, chairman; Donald DeOtte, second vice chairman; Ralph Reppert; John Detrick; Vance Megargle, first vice president and county commissioner Stuart Pipher. Commission members absent were Clifford Gillam and Montgomery Crowe.

TRADEMARK DESIGN EDITED BY E. JACOBSON—PAUL THEOBALD AND COMPANY, PUBLISHER

An 18th Century silk merchant left his mark

It appeared on every bolt of silk he sold. What was his reason for identifying his work? So his customers could immediately buy with confidence. His reputation was always on the line. If the quality wasn't consistent his sales would suffer.

When you shop today you look for familiar "marks" too—Leadership Brands. Products that you know and trust; quality you've depended on for years. These products don't have to mask themselves. The manufacturer "goes on record" with his advertising—he must live up to the standard he sets (or his sales will suffer). He knows he can deliver good quality, so he readily identifies himself with his products. You can depend on Brand Names, for they are the "mark of 20th century confidence" in all you buy. When you buy Leadership Brands, you know you are getting your money's worth.

Elegant Home Is Tailored To Needs

In its headlong rush to shelter today's "average family," the housing industry seems to have turned its back on almost everyone who simply doesn't need three bedrooms plus expansion, or a stadium - size rumpus room, or storage space for six tricycles.

Architect Samuel Paul set out to remedy this oversight when he designed today's House of the Week.

It is an elegant little ranch tailored to the needs of a couple with one child, for example, or an elderly couple with no children at home, or even — because Paul paid particular attention to resale value — a young couple who want to start with a small home they can afford and graduate later to a larger one.

This house, design H-17 in the weekly series, contains a basic living area of only 1,043 square feet in over-all dimensions of 53 feet six inches wide by 33 feet three inches deep, which means it would fit comfortably on a 70 foot by 85 foot lot.

Yet it is so efficiently designed that for all its snug dimensions it has the charm and liveability of a much larger house — features such as entrance foyer, screened porch, front portico, attached garage and workshop.

By eliminating expensive and space consuming excesses which small families neither need nor want, architect Paul was able to devote as much space to the essentials as you likely would find only in a much larger home.

Living room, dining room, kitchen and master bedroom all are handsomely proportioned, and there is a 10 foot by 10 foot room large enough to use as a second bedroom if needed, or as a study, sewing room or what have you.

ADDITIONAL DETAILS

The gracious exterior of the house has a covered portico, boxed planters, stone front and redwood gables — features of long standing popularity which protect future resale value.

The interior floor plan, too, is straightforward and without gimmicks, thus certain to remain desirable for years to come.

It revolves around a central entrance foyer which reduces to a minimum the number of steps to every part of the house. The foyer leads directly into the attractive rear living room with large bay window overlooking the rear patio. From the living room there is direct access both to the screened porch and the dining room.

The dining room, however, is purposely more closely related to the kitchen than the living room; more closely related, that is, to informal living than formal, but adaptable to both. A large glass sliding door leads to the screened porch and, of course, may be left open during warm weather.

One of the most outstanding features of the home is the kitchen, located within a few steps of both the main and service entrances.

It is designed as a sit-down kitchen with low wall cabinets, convenient drawer space and other features which are a luxury to any housewife, but almost a necessity to the older housewife.

The entire kitchen is 17 feet long with cabinets lining two walls. At the front wall is a counter top more than 11 feet long with knee space underneath so that all dishwashing, cooking and food preparation can be done either sitting or standing.

A further innovation is the extended window bay, providing a ledge for plants and knick-knacks without encroaching on the work surface. Sliding doors cabinets are located between the counter top and the window ledge, and an attractive desk top adorns the opposite corner.

The house has no basement, but storage and hobby areas have not been neglected. There are two extra-wide, extra-deep storage bins alongside the garage, a storage closet convenient to the porch for outdoor furniture, and plenty of roomy closets within the house itself.

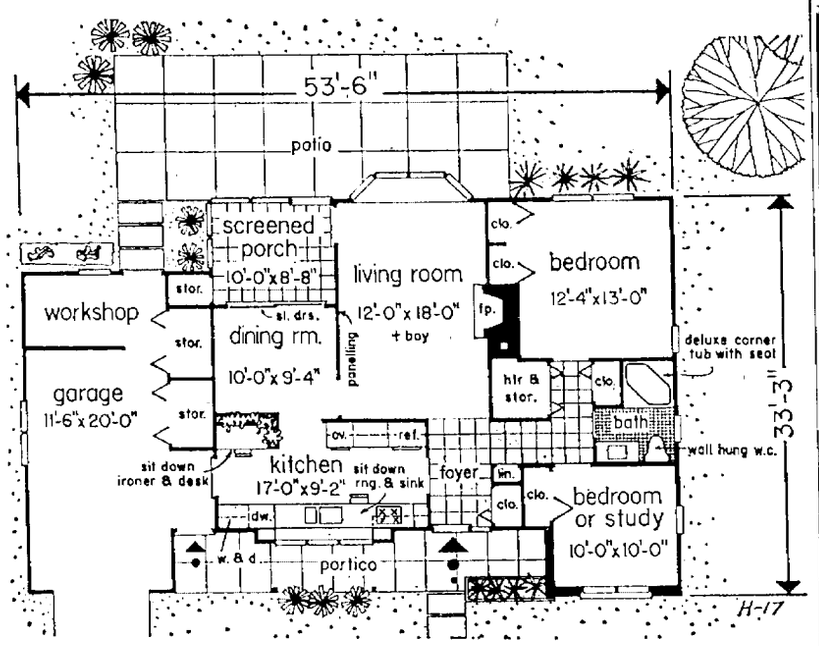
H-17 STATISTICS

A one story home with no basement. Contains living room, kitchen, two bedrooms, bath, foyer, screened porch, front portico, one-car garage, workshop. Basic area is 1043 square feet; screened porch adds 93 square feet, portico 150 square feet, garage with workshop an storage bins 401 square feet. Over-all dimensions 53 feet six inches by 33 feet three inches. Minimum lot recommended: 70 feet by 85 feet.

PICKING THE PROPER PAINT

There is no such thing as an all-purpose paint that will give optimum results everywhere. The National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association points out that the paint industry produces many special paints for specific surfaces. Consult your reputable paint dealer to assure the proper selection.

TIDY PACKAGE: This elegant little ranch contains two bedrooms, a full bath, and all the other essentials for a small family or elderly couple. The exterior, with portico, box planters, stone front and redwood gables, will be popular for years to come.



FLOOR PLAN—The basic living area of the house is 1,043 square feet which does not include the screened porch, portico, garage workshop or storage bins. Over-all dimensions are 53 feet, six inches wide by 33 feet three inches deep.

MOST BOILERS HAVE RESERVE CAPACITY

If you are considering extending your hydronic (hot water) heating system to include a family room, garage, or an added-on bedroom, your present boiler may be able to handle the extra work load, says the Plumbing - Heating-Cooling Information Bureau.

Have your plumging-heating contractor check the reserve capacity of your present boiler, chances are it can handle the extra work. If not, he may suggest alternatives such as special insulation that will enable the boiler to work harder.

ZONED HEATING SAVES DOLLARS

One of the main benefits of a hydronic heating system is that zoning the system can be done easily and economically, says the Plumbing - Heating-Cooling Information Bureau. With separate thermostats, pumps and pipe circuits, only one boiler is necessary to provide different temperatures in each living area of the home. Fuel is saved by lowering temperatures in rooms that are not being occupied.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG

If your automobile developed a squeak some time ago, the chances are you hardly notice it any more. But someone else riding in your car is likely to hear it immediately. The same thing is true of squeaky floors. While the noise may no longer bother you, it is likely that guests are quickly aware of it.

The treatment for a talking floor depends on whether it is a first floor over an unfinished basement or a second floor with a plaster ceiling underneath. In the former case, the squeaks can be silenced from the basement. In the latter, they must be attacked from the top, which means that some marring of the floor is inevitable. If the floor is to be covered with a rug, this is of little concern. If it will be visible, extra care must be taken to match the patch with the surrounding surface.

When the underside of the first floor can be seen from the basement, your job can be made easier by using an assistant, who will be asked to do nothing more than walk back and forth. While he is doing this walking, on the offending floor, you stay in the basement, marking with a chalk the places where the squeaks are audible. Where the individual boards in the subfloor are not tightly attached to the joist, drive a wedge between them to fill the space. Where a joist appears to be warped, place a piece of 2 by 4 or 2 by 6 between that joist and the next one, nailing it securely. Or you can buy metal bridging made for that purpose. If the squeak appears to be caused by friction between the subfloor and finished floor, pull them together with a screw driven in from underneath. Be sure the screw is not so long that it protrudes through the floor.

The most annoying part of eliminating squeaks from an upstairs floor is locating the joists which, of course, can't be seen. Pounding the floor with the side of your fist is one way to do it. A hollow sound means you've hit an area between joists; a solid sound means you are over a joist. If you can't get the hang of this, you're just going to have to drill a few holes in the floor until you locate a joist and then proceed from there, remembering that the joists are 16 inches apart on center in nearly all construction.

Loose floor boards must be reattached to the joists with two-inch finishing nails or screws of the same size. If nails are used, drive them in pairs at an angle, so that the points meet inside the joists. Threaded nails are especially good for this purpose.

Use a nailset to push the nails slightly below the surface. Screwheads should be countersunk. Wood putty or some other form of wood filler is then packed into the openings to complete the job.

Bathroom Expansion Is Possible In Most Homes

SHORTAGE of bathroom facilities needn't trigger your search for a new house — there are many ways you can obtain greatly increased bathroom space within the "old homestead."

Bathrooms in older homes are often large enough that a simple division of the area will provide room for two complete baths or perhaps a full bath and a powder room. A two-story home with a single bathroom is a natural for installing a second bath on the floor now lacking one, reports the Plumbing - Heating-Cooling Information Bureau.

Space for added facilities is generally available for the looking — at the end of a dead-end or little-used hallway — in a large walk-in closet — in area now part of a large room—even in basements and attics. Areas not quite large enough for a tub should be considered for possible shower installations.

In addition to securing more space, there are also many ways to better utilize present facilities by "compartmentizing," that is, providing privacy for each fixture within a bathroom. With this arrangement, bathroom fixtures can be used simultaneously by two or three persons in complete privacy.

Beyond the obvious advantages of reducing rush-hour traffic jams, improved bathroom facilities add value to your home. If the time does arrive that you decide to sell, your task will be far easier because of the improvements made.

The Bureau advises consulting a reputable plumbing contractor concerning your needs, and with him, plan installation.

Salvation Army Board Reorganizes; Warner Head

STROUDSBURG — The Salvation Army Advisory Board was reorganized Wednesday at a meeting at the Penn Stroud hotel Daniel Warner was elected board Chairman, succeeding Clifford Cramer.

Other officers elected were Arlington Williams, Vice-chairman; Mrs. Foster Minnich, secretary; and Howard Merring, treasurer.

In the absence of the nominating committee chairman Fred Rhodes, Howard Merring presented the slate of officers.

Mr. Cramer who has served on the board for the past 2 years thanked the members for their splendid cooperation during his term as chairman.

He will continue to serve on the executive and property committees.

Nominated to serve for new three-year terms were: Mrs. Carroll Ali, William Wells, Mrs. Darrell Gehris, Mrs. Foster Minnich, Robert Philips, John Brislin, E. H. Staples and Edwin B. Hughes.

Seven other members have two more years and eight other in one year terms to serve until 1965 and 1966.

Warner will finalize appointments for various committees which will be named at the next monthly meeting.

Communications from the secretary of the New York Staff band were read stating it would be impossible for the band to visit East Stroudsburg in May as had been anticipated.

The board has requested a date for May 1965, the Army's Centenial year for the band to visit the community for a public concert.

Announcement of the visit of The Salvation Armys Tottenham Citadel band from London England was made. Their itinerary will include concerts in Philadelphia on April 3 and at Scranton April 6.

Special Lenten services with guest speakers each Friday evening will commence at the Citadel on Friday March 6.

Bids for renovations in the kitchen at the officers quarters on Stemple St. will be reviewed by the property committee at a special meeting Tuesday at 1:30 P.M. property inspection will be made and further plans for securing a new and larger building for the local corps program will be on the agenda.

The purposes and responibilities of the advisory board and various committees were reviewed from the manuel of procedure for advisory organizations. Fourteen members were present at the meeting.

DANIEL WARNER (right), was elected chairman of The Salvation Army Advisory Board at the organization's monthly meeting Wednesday at the Penn-Stroud Hotel. He succeeds Clifford Cramer (left) who served almost four years as chairman and a number of years as vice chairman. Major H. G. Baker reviews Advisory Board purposes and responsibilities.

Just Like Finding Old Money

BANGOR — Although the school has long been closed the money received in its name some years ago yesterday was presented to the Bangor Area Joint Senior High School for the purchase of memorial books for the high school library.

In a somewhat subdued ceremony this week, J. Harold Miller, treasurer of the old Aughton School Fund of Lower Mt. Bethel Township presented a check in the amount of $141.50 to Dr. S. William Ricker, superintendent of the Bangor Area Joint School System for the books.

Local school officials indicated that the funds will be used to purchase the books in the near future and a proper memorial insert will be placed in each volume.

Miller, who made the transaction in the presence of Dr. Ricker, Merle W. Mabus, secretary to the school district and Elton Ott, a member of the Lower Mt. Bethel School Board indicated that he had become treasurer of the fund in 1944. His late father Luther R. Miller had served as the treasurer of the school fund until that time.

The old school was located on the Richmond-Belvidere Road in Lower Mt. Bethel Township and it was believed that it was closed to active classes about 1930, some 34 years ago. The last known teacher in the school was Mrs. Frank Miller. She was the former Miss Helen Rosenberry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Rosenberry.

According to an explanation as to the source of the funds, it was noted that they were secured or raised from the traditional box socials for which the country area surrounding Bangor in that early day and age were famous.

Deep appreciation for the thoughtfulness and sincere interest in the education of the children of the Bangor Area Schools was expressed by Dr. Ricker in accepting the gift.

Between Us — —

—By Bobby Westbrook

Those who bewail the growing paternalism of government, could well take as their text the turnpikes that span the nation. Except by the time we drove from Philadelphia to Elyria, Ohio, rather than a stern father there was more the feeling of a mother brooding over all motorists, or maybe Big Brother.

You don't notice it so much at first. The signs are familiar: Speed Limit 65 miles an hour, Speed Checked by Radar, No Stopping Except for Emergencies. It was when we got to the tunnels that the feeling that somebody was watching over our shoulder grew stronger.

After having been channeled into One Lane, 35 miles an hour, directed to Put on Your Lights, came the reminder "Remove Sun Glasses". On the Ohio Turnpike, the feeling grew even stronger when, at the exit of every rest stop, came the reminder "Fasten Your Seat Belt".

And on the overpasses "Stay Awake, Stay Alive", then "Make One Rest Stop Every Two Hours". We began to get the feeling that this thing might go even further, and fully expected to find signs "Did You Brush Your Teeth After Eating?" or, at the exits, "Don't Forget to Say Your Prayers".

Incidentally, the anti-billboard people would be happy with Ohio. Instead of the rash of motel signs that break out before every Pennsylvania exit, there is a chaste sign reading "Motels, Next Exit, 32 units" — or 320 or however many there are.

After 500 miles of such supervised living, we were worrying how we were going to manage on our own with no Big Brother to tell us when to take off our sunglasses or fasten our safety belts.

We needn't have worried. As we paid our toll, the attendant asked our destination and handed us a mimeographed sheet of directions for getting there.

No matter how many times somebody tries to explain how Big Brother checks speed by radar, I'v never understood it, so I have a dark suspicion that speed isn't the only thing he checks by radar. Probably, besides checking up on whether we've taken off our sunglasses, fastened our seat belts and put our litter in the litter bag, he knows whether we cleaned our plates at the last stop and where we'll head first at the next.

WORLD-TRAVELERS for the National Geographic Society, Helen and Frank Schreider and their traveling companion Dinah. The Schreiders will speak at Dutch Treat Club here Tuesday.

Schreiders At Dutch Treat Tuesday With Films Of Adventure In Indonesia

Stroudsburg—From the Stone Age warriors from a vanishing culture to modern Jakarta, crucible of Indonesia's political problems, Helen and Frank Schreider will share with the Dutch Treat Club their "Adventure in Indonesia" on Tuesday night at 7 at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

The Tuesday night date is a new one for the Dutch Treat Club which usually holds its dinner meetings on Thursday nights. However, the change was made in order to fit the schedule of the Schneiders who again were chosen to open the National Geographic Society season in Washington, D. C. and have been widely booked throughout the country.

On assignment for 13 months for the National Geographic Magazine, the Shreiders with their German shepherd dog, Dinah, island-hopped from Sumatra to Timor in their amphibious jeep.

Following the path of Magellan, Sir Francis Drake and Captain Bligh, they filmed in color the volcanos where sacrifice to the God of Fire is still performed, the Robinson Crusoe adventures on islands where no wheeled vehicle had ever touched before.

The Schreiders met and married while students at the University of California at Los Angeles, and their dream of a delayed honeymoon by jeep developed into an expedition. They were the first to travel under their own power from Alaska to the tip of South America, and the Saturday Evening Post carried a five part serial of their adventures which later appeared in a book "20,000 Miles South."

Since then the Schreiders have been traveling for National Geographic Magazine to India, to Indonesia and to Africa. Their latest book, "The Drums of Tonkin" has just been published.

Dutch Treat members wishing to bring guests are asked to make dinner reservations with the hotel as soon as possible.

Visiting Nurses Add Staff To Meet Growing Caseload

East Stroudsburg — The board of directors of Monroe County Visiting Nurse Assn. this week took action to accommodate a growing case load.

Mrs. Charles Park, president, announced that one full-time nurse and one substitute nurse has been added to the staff.

Appointed as a full-time nurse was Mrs. Mary Lou Grainger, a graduate of Philadelphia General Hospital. Mrs. Grainger, who had acted as a substitute staff nurse here, has taken courses at the University of Pennsylvania, University of Minnesota, served on the staff at Philadelphia General and St. Luke's in Bethlehem. She was also a former staff member of the Philadelphia Visiting Nurse association. Her appointment becomes effective March 2.

Appointed as a substitute nurse, also effective March 2, was Mrs. Irma Titus. Mrs. Titus is a graduate of Lenox Hill School of Nursing, New York. She has served on the staff of Doctor's Hospital, New York City, Binghamton (N. Y.) City Hospital, and was a visiting nurse with the New York Red Cross.

Other members of the local staff are Mrs. Lorraine Krakowsky, nurse supervisor, and Mrs. Sylvia Kite.

In other VNA board action this week Mrs. Park announced new committees:

Let's talk Fashion
Listen a jiffy and we'll tell you about our Iffy Coats. No fooling, that's what they call these Italian Iffy coats designed by Giorgio Avolio of Milano. They promise that iffy it shines or iffy it showers, you can go triumphantly abroad in any weather. What we promise is that these are mighty handsome and versatile raincoats.
There's one called Roman Guard that's straight out of a foreign intrigue thriller, and another one with the high fashion shirt sleeves, and still a third with an easy cut that would go as well over daytime suits as over late day dresses.
We're sort of if-fy ourselves, wondering whether we prefer the Iffy coats or the new shipment of spring coats that have arrived as welcome and flower-fresh as the first robin. They team up handsomely with the new Spring suits we're so happily admiring.
So iffy you've got a jiffy, stop in and help us decide.

THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

OUR READERS WRITE

Dear Madalyn,

I have known for a long time that the salespeople at Wyckoff's are especially nice and accommodating, but I must compliment the store on one in particular. I am very sorry I do not know her name but only her sales number—No. 16.

I called to order some small treats for Valentine's Day and since at that time I had no charge account, she most graciously sent them to me C.O.D., and also did me the favor of stopping in the office and having them send me an application for a charge account.

Last Saturday I stopped in the store, hoping I might be able to get some Valentine cards, but never expecting to. She was busy counting and putting away all that were left of them, but when I made my request for some, she most graciously looked over those she had already put away. I did not know at the time that she was the one who had the application mailed to me until I gave her my charge name and address. Then she said something about my receiving the application.

I sincerely want the store to know what grand people they have dealing with the public.

Mrs. Evelyn Beatty
Cresco, Pa.

Dear Mrs. Beatty,

Thank you so much for writing. Letters like this give a great lift not only to the person who has earned the compliment but to the management of a company, and present a challenge to all of us to be constantly aware of the store's motto of friendly service. I am not sure who the saleswoman is to whom you refer, but I can see why you are grateful to her. She certainly is "Sweet" 16, isn't she?

* * *

Dear Mrs. Maloney,

I think it is a fine thing that you are having a fashion modeling contest for teen agers. My own daughter is very excited about it, and if she can you can certainly bet she'll be in next year's contest should you have one. She's twelve now and has some growing to do.

I have always liked shopping Wyckoff's, but now it's more "big city" than ever with corset shows, movies, its own auditorium (Keystone room, isn't it?) and closer cooperation with national publications. My daughter and I say "three cheers" for those responsible. We'll both be at the Seventeen show and I hope to see the corset show even though it will give me an inferiority complex. Keep up the good work!

Best luck,
Mrs. J. L. R.

Dear Mrs. R.,

Thank you to for writing, and do introduce yourself and your daughter when you come into the store. It is thrilling to know that many of our customers are as loyal and proud of our store as those who are employed here and are naturally concerned with its growth and progress. Of course, we must give our customers credit . . . they are pretty wonderful too!

Cy Barrett Says

Celebrities Draw

By Cyprus Barrett, Jr.

DEAR CY:

Our astronauts proved they know which way is up. The seven invested $7,500 each in a Cape Kennedy motel and sold their individual interests for $13,500 . . . a gain of $6,000. Not bad, as the motel started operating on the first of June in 1962. This has me considering inviting a celebrity into my business. Is the trend becoming a rule for business success?

L. N. BAXTER

DEAR MR. BAXTER:

Usually, the most significant desire of anyone starting a new business is "to see my name on the door." There will never be a preponderance of new ventures lashed to public names. Lately there has been a plethora of franchises under the aegis of notable Americans.

Willie Mosconi Billiard Centers may be found alongside Arnold Palmer Putting Courses or Pat Boone Dine-O-Mats. The Linkletter-Totten Dance Studios would never have so indelibly stamped on the world of small business without Art lending his name and financial resources.

Some companies burnish their public image by adding famous figures to their staffs. Remington Rand didn't change its name to MacArthur Enterprises, after making the hero of the Pacific its board chairman. The Valley National Bank (Glendale, California) scored deposits of 20 million dollars in 6 years (after starting from scratch) by keeping no secret of having Vice President Charles D. "Casey" Stengel on its team.

Huge names in business have become more popular as modern communications makes famous people known in greater depth. They offer a means of hitching certain companies to stars in hopes of rising faster to higher altitudes. Sometimes a star too closely approximates "A luminous hot globular mass of intensely hot gases."

CY

DEAR CY:

Owning a coin-operated laundry is my business, and customers practically make me weep. Soap and bleaches are arranged on the wall with directions for proper use. Coin-charging machines also have instructions posted on them. When I come to inspect my business, I always find some woman in the process of wrecking one of my machines.

They put dimes and nickels into a machine made to change quarters into dimes and nickels. They hang the operating mechanisms and somehow manage to get clothes jammed in washers and dryers. It is useless for me to say, Please read the directions." The answer always is, I know how to work these machines." COIN MAN

DEAR COIN MAN:

The battle of humans against machines seems to be focused where the coin hits the slot. Many coin-operating homemakers feel, "If machines are supposed to think, let them do it for me." Rejecting instructions creates a psychosis devastating to ovens, foods, washers, dishwashers, dryers, and husbands who dare inquire about family budgets.

CY

DEAR CY:

Since 1936, I have been what you might call a mail order bug. (Only answer ads.) Last year, I decided to spread my wings and offered tapestries for sale through small classified ads, after establishing a company name. My investment for the first ad and letterheads was only $10 but I made $150 profit on it. Inquiries produced by subsequent ads paid off also. You see, an importer in New York sent the tapestries to my customer direct, as I placed orders with him. Your readers might be interested in this "little guy success story."

LITTLE SUCCESS

DEAR LITTLE SUCCESS:

You discovered a few things -- a specialty item not found generally in retail stores; a dropship product supplier, classified advertising and your ingenuity. Ingenuity is something no one else believes you have . . . until you mystify yourself by discovering it.

Eldred Twp. Supervisors Approve $20,639 Budget

KUNKLETOWN — Eldred Twp. Supervisors have tentatively approved a budget of $20,639.47 for 1964. The budget will not increase nor decrease the tax millage of last year.

The real estate millage remains at 3½ mills, and the $5 per capita tax remains the same.

Expenses for 1964, from the general fund, are: administration, $1,084; tax collection, $294; township buildings, $1,378; fire, $225; highways — township funds only — $16,700, and miscellaneous, $500.

A breakdown of the administration expenses are: supervisors salaries, $235; secretary-treasurer, $600; auditors, $45; office supplies, $20; advertising and printing, $40; postage, telephone and telegrams, $18; premiums on official's bonds, $32; solicitor's fee, $50; state assn. twp. supervisors dues, $20; subscription to Twp. News, $12, and subscription to Road Builder magazine, $12.

Tax collectors expenses are: salary or fee, $250; printing, $12; postage, $12, and premium on bond, $20.

Fire expenses include a donation to the Kunkletown Fire Co., $100, and other fire protection, $125.

From twp. fund only, and to be used on highways, expenses are: snow removal, $1,500; repair to tools and machinery, $200; construction and reconstruction of roads, $5,000; purchase of new tools and machines, $7,000, and maintenance of roads and bridges, $3,000.

Miscellaneous expenses are: supervisor's convention, $30; insurance, $450, and rent for storing equipment, $20.

The supervisors will act on the budget at a meeting Saturday, March 7, in the Kunkletown Firehall at 1:30 p.m.

GSA Approves $173,500 Bids

HARRISBURG (UPI) — The General State Authority has approved allocations totaling $173,500 for acquisition of land and construction of facilities for the proposed Kinzua Bridge State Park in McKean County.

The GSA said it will use $100,000 to acquire 300 acres adjacent to the Kinzua Bridge northeast of the borough of Mount Jewett along Routes 59 and 6, with the Forests and Waters Department contributing another $50,000 for that purpose, and hold $73,500 for construction of park facilities.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Friday, February 28, 1964

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Stars promise several advantages now but you will have to look deep and keep looking. The reward will be well worthwhile. Exploit your talents to wise advantage.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Mixed influences. Be selective and stress quality rather than quantity. News from some areas may surprise; be steady, sure-footed.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — You will not approve of all the action about, but in your own sphere you can manage astutely and maintain balance generally. Shun excitement.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Distinguished action possible - expected from you on all levels. Teaching, studies, research especially favored.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — You can be original without stepping out of line. But be certain of facts before starting. Incorporate the superior in any new effort.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Call a meeting of those invited if it could assist better understanding, further progress. Don't put off till next week what should be done NOW.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Pack every minute with useful endeavor. This does not mean at an even tempo. Let your delightful personality sell you and your program.

October 23 to November 22 (Scorpio) — A great day for your talents if ably projected and in right channels for YOU. Eclipse nonplusses with your consistent carefulness.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — In discussions, be clear and definite so there will be no misunderstandings. This will also help to stabilize your program. Face all matters in a mature manner, befitting your ability.

December 23 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Follow a program planned with foresight, not a spur-of-the-moment project that "looks good." However, give all new ideas and hints fair perusal.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — You can have a productive, enjoyable day if doing your best. But don't undertake a schedule so exacting that it leaves no time for recreation. Avoid extremes.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Neptune influences now urge you to be tenacious of purpose, constructive in plan. Method and flexibility are both needed. Channel efforts in sound directions.

YOU BORN TODAY are idealistic; tend to be scholarly; are never satisfied with insufficient or everyday knowledge, innately honorable. Your personality is engaging; you gather friends and opportunities quickly, but may have only a few close companions. You love things beautiful, colorful, tasteful. Tenacity plus a keen sense of what others want win lops success for you even in "hard times." Avoid extremes. Birthdate of: Michel Montaigne, Fr. essayist; Geraldine Farrar, singer.

Pair Of Bums

MIAMI BEACH — At 1:35 p.m., on the day of the world's heavyweight championship fight for the entertainment of distinguished sportsmen and slobs of lesser station, Sugar Ray Robinson was summoned by nervous handlers of Cassius Marcellus Clay.

Quickly, Robinson was dispatched to the quarters inhabited by Clay whose behavior the previous couple of hours had been more than a little abnormal.

It was only his swiftness afoot, in fact, that enabled him to leave the weigh-in ceremony a jump ahead of people in white jackets. His pulse had quickened, his blood pressure had zoomed startingly and he babbled in a manner that prompted the house doctor to express grave concern over the patient's mental health.

What Robinson was expecterd to do in such circumstances isn't known, but it transpired that all he had to do was get Cassius into the ring alive. Sonny Liston would provide the means by which Clay would denude him of his title.

The explanation from the Liston connections was that Sonny injured his left shoulder late in the first round and a gradual paralysis prevented his fighting with his customary vigor.

If such an injury occurred, it appeared to be only part of the story. The other part was that Liston was a well exhausted man by the sixth round.

It was this condition that he shared with his opponent, giving one and all the offhand impression that here stood a pair of 24 carat bums.

It remained unaccountable that a world's champion and a No. 1 contender should be so tired after such a short period, of exercise.

Clay could scarcely raise his arms in the fifth, explaining lamely afterwards that a substance from Sonny's glove interfered with his vision.

Having pursued Cassius about the ring in the fifth and finding him distressingly operative at the end, Sonny was confronted with a problem.

It was compounded by the fact that the man had fought less than three rounds over the last three years and was plainly ill equipped for anything suggesting a distance.

When Clay gathered himself in the sixth and won the round on all cards, Liston repaired to his corner a discouraged, disoriented individual.

Perspiration poured from his face. Blood trickled lightly from a wound on the left cheekbone and a welt that once was small was expanding below his right eye.

This isn't to impute that the champion was a lacerated mess, or that his case was lost, because he was at the time ahead on points.

But it was clear that whatever the injury to the man, he also was tired. And what happened in the corner at the end of the round is anybody's guess, including that of the Miami Beach Boxing Commission which temporarily put the arm on Sonny's money.

Discreetly, Liston disappeared after the fight without talking to the flower of international journalism in attendance.

But his manager, Jack Nilon, observed unblinkingly that Sonny "wasn't even breathing hard" at the end of the sixth.

"He had pain in the shoulder," said Nilon, "and I ordered the fight stopped."

"Did Sonny try to restrain you?" Nilon was asked.

"No, he nodded and went along."

For that matter, Willie Reddish, the trainer of Liston, did, too.

It was a most unsatisfactory finish to the most expensive championship fight ever staged and, for $250, one deserved a performance of better quality.

For Cassius Marcellus Clay, who almost went out on what afternoon, it was a most extraordinary day.

Following his unorthodox behavior at the weigh-in, the doctor announced that Cassius would have to undergo another examination before he would be permitted to fight that night.

Then the doctor reversed his field after which he changed directions again. The final ruling was that the decision would hinge on an exam at 8 o'clock in the evening, or two hours before the match.

By that point, the pulse of Clay had strangely returned to normal and his speech was softer, not to mention more coherent.

Next seen, at 9:10 p.m., Cassius was attired in a tuxedo and a white shirt with ruffles, standing in the aisle in the back of the auditorium watching his brother, Rudolph Valentino Clay, slug it out with some guy in a four-round preliminary.

It is, of course, less than conventional for one about to fight for the world's heavyweight championship to be on his feet, clad in a tux, 50 minutes before the match.

Cassius defended himself respectably in the early rounds, which was all that was required, in view of the circumstances. At 218 pounds, Liston came in heavy and the least bit flabby, and, a his handlers insist, he may have gone out with a bad shoulder.

But it remains the private view here that he went out with a bad fight.

S-burg Matmen Trim Cavaliers

STROUDSBURG—Losing only three of 12 bouts, the Mountaineer matmen of Stroud Union last night trimmed their inter-borough rivals, East Stroudsburg, by a 30-13 margin to close out the season for both schools.

The triumph was the second of the campaign over the Cavaliers and the eighth against six setbacks for Coach Dick Merring's lads. Eastburg finished the season with a 3-10 records.

Stroud Union Frank Coco (98) and Don Heller (157) scored falls over their opponents. Winning by decision for the Mounties were Dutch Grimm (115), John Chanaca (123), Mike Folk (130), Britton Detrick (141), Floyd Lambert (168), and heavyweight Larry Pope.

East Stroudsburg's Don Lesoine (183) won by a fall while Jack Hineline (136) and Ron Spinner (148) each registered decisions.

Rick Lehman of East Stroudsburg and Tom Coco battled to a 7-7 draw in the 106-pound class.

Stroud Union also won the JV match, 41-19.

The results:

98 — Frank Coco (SU) pinned Pete Miller, 3:39, half nelson-chicken wing.

106 — Tom Coco (SU) and Rick Lehman, draw, 7-7.

115 — Dutch Grimm (SU) decisioned Ray Gallagher, 8-1.

123 — John Chanaca (SU) decisioned Bruce MacIntire, 7-0.

130 — Mike Folk (SU) decisioned John Bertucci, 7-0.

136 — Jack Hineline (ES) decisioned Ralph Bush, 6-3.

141 — Britton Detrick (SU) decisioned Randy Heller, 6-1.

148 — Ron Spinner (ES) decisioned John Armato, 3-2.

157 — Don Heller (SU) pinned Steve Quick, 4:40, head chancery-arm bar.

168 — Floyd Lambert (SU) decisioned Harold Boushell, 8-2.

183 — Don Lesoine (ES) pinned John Krause, 3:30, stackup.

Unl. — Larry Pope (SU) decisioned John Kintner, 6-0.

Eagles Make It Official

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Joe Kuharich was named head coach of the National Football League's Philadelphia Eagles Thursday night, ending a one-year coaching hiatus for the veteran pro.

The 46-year-old Kuharich quit as coach at his alma mater, Notre Dame, after the 1962 season to take a post as supervisor of officials for the NFL. His return to coaching was announced here at a news conference by Eagles' owner Jerry Wolman.

Kuharich's signing of a four-year contract thus ended Wolman's quest for a coach begun last Jan. 21, the day the 37-year-old millionaire building contractor's $5.5-million purchase of the Eagles was approved by the league.

Fired Skorich

Wolman's first official action after taking control was to fire Coach Nick Skorich and announce he would hire another coach to lead the last-place Eagles back to NFL respectability.

Kuharich's teams in the past primarily have relied on a ground offense. The Eagles have been known as a passing team.

Kuharich played at Notre Dame and professionally with the Chicago Cardinals of the NFL.

He served as line coach with the Pittsburgh Steelers in 1946, moved to the University of San Francisco as an assistant in 1947, and became head coach there in 1948. He coached the Dons four years, his last team going undefeated.

In 1952, Kuharich took over as head coach of the Chicago Cardinals and joined the Washington Redskins as line coach in 1954. He became the Skins' head man in August of that year. His Washington teams won 26, lost 33 and tied 1.

Twin City Replaces Cramer In 'Y' Lead

STROUDSBURG—Ron Lauchnor tallied 29 points to pace Twin City to an 88-78 win over Cramer last night to gain possession of first place in the YMCA Industrial League. Buck's-East Stroudsburg Hardware toppled Lawson's 118-102, in the other tiff.

Twin City boosted its league record to 9-1—a half-game better than Cramer's 8-1 mark — while also avenging a previous setback against the Cramer combine. Both teams will meet once more in what will probably decide the loop championship.

Also hitting double figures for Twin City were Dick Lathrop (17), Charlie Chronister (14), Bob Rentschler (13) and Jim Barniak (12). Hen Chomentowski led the losers with 21.

Frank Marinaccio led Buck's with 36 points and King Beers added 19 against Lawson's. Ralph Lopardo netted 44 for the losers.

Senators To Probe Return Fight

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate subcommittee announced Thursday it will inquire into a contract which could set up a return bout between Sonny Liston and Cassius Clay.

But a holder of the agreement advised the senators to "quit wasting the taxpayers' money, the contract is perfectly legal."

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., said the Senate antitrust subcommittee will hold a "short set of hearings," probably next week, into the contract which gives Inter-Continental Promotions, Inc., exclusive rights to promote the next bout for Clay, who won Liston's heavyweight title in an upset Tuesday night.

The senator indicated both Clay and Liston probably would be called as witnesses.

Hart acted after reading a newspaper report that Inter-Continental, which promoted the Tuesday fight, paid Clay $50,000 for the right to stage the next match and name the opponent.

In accordance with a rule adopted by the World Boxing Association last year, the Liston-Clay fight did not include a rematch clause.

Hart said:

"If this report is true, it means that a boxing promotion corporation, in which Liston owns 50 per cent of the stock, entered into an agreement with Clay for $50,000 prior to Tuesday night's fight for the purpose of promoting Clay's next fight.

Rained Out

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Rain washed out the first round of the New Orleans Open Thursday, delaying start of the $50,000 golf tourney until Friday.

Barring further setbacks, the windup of the 72-hole tourney will come Monday.

7 New Members Enter Grid 'Hall'

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Seven new members of pro football's Hall of Fame were announced Thursday, joining the 17 charter members installed last year in the city where the National Football League was founded in 1920.

Six players from the 1920s and 1930s and Art Rooney, founder and owner of the Pittsburgh Steelers, will be inducted formally Sept. 8 in ceremonies preceding the annual Hall of Fame game. This year's game will be played between Rooney's Steelers and the Baltimore Colts.

All seven of the new members are living and are expected to participate in the ceremonies in September.

Four linemen — center George Trafton, tackle Ed Healey, tackle Roy (Link) Lyman and August (Mike) Michalske—were named along with two backs—fullback Clark Hinkle and halfback Jimmy Conzelman, who also was active as a coach and executive with several clubs.

The elections actually took place last Dec. 28, the day before the NFL championship game at Chicago, but announcement was held up until this official word from the office of Dick McCann, Hall of Fame director.

Conzelman's selection posed a problem. The former coach of the Providence Steamrollers, Detroit Lions and Chicago Cardinals is a member of the 14-man board of veteran newsmen and officials who pick the new members. By coupling Conzelman's name with Rooney, both were accepted by acclamation, before Conzelman realized what was up.

Founded Steelers

Rooney was the only new member who did not play organized pro football. He saw semi-pro action before he founded the Steelers in 1933.

Life-sized busts of the members will be cast in bronze and a huge action mural of each man will be created.

Trafton played with the Chicago Bears from 1920 to 1932 and Healey was active with Rock Island and the Bears from 1920 to 1927. Lyman was a tackle with the Canton Bulldogs, Cleveland and the Bears from 1922 to 1934 and Michalske broke in with the old New York Yankees of the first American League and also played with Green Bay between 1927 and 1937.

Bixler's, YMCA Win OBBL Tilts

STROUDSBURG — Bixler's and YMCA gained victories Wednesday in the Older Boys Basketball League at the YMCA.

Dave Torzillo sizzled the nets for 43 points to pace Bixler's to a 69-62 win over IMBT's. Tom Moreken tallied 25 for the losers.

A 34-point performance by John Muller outscored the entire Wyckoff-Sears team as YMCA galloped off with a 67-29 rout.

Ski Meeting

STROUDSBURG — The Pocono Mountain Ski Club will meet tonight in the conference room of the Penn-Stroud Hotel starting at 8 o'clock.

Signs Contract For $100,000

Mantle Eyes 150 Games; Yanks Pay Same Salary

...By JOE RIECHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE, (AP) —Mickey Mantle, a victim of crippling injuries that sidelined him most of last year, signed another healthy $100,000 baseball contract with the New York Yankees Wednesday and set 150 games as his target for this season.

"If I play 150 games, I'll be happy," the star outfielder said at a press conference during which the announcement, including the salary, was made. "My leg feels greatly improved and I see no reason why it shouldn't be all right all season."

The 32-year-old switch-hitter received no cut in salary although he played in only 65 games last year because of a left foot bone fracture he received while crashing into a fence in Baltimore. He also underwent an operation for the removal of a cartilage in the left knee last Oct. 18.

"The Yankee management feels that a player who has done so much on the field and has developed such solid fan support should not be penalized for his injuries," said Ralph Houk, the club's new general manager. "Mantle is a real inspiration to our club and a tremendous asset to baseball."

Mantle, whose home is in Dallas, won the American League's triple crown in 1956 and paced the league in homers three other times. He also has been named the AL's Most Valuable Player three times.

"I have been exercising my legs with weights all winter," Mantle said "and if I can improve in the next six weeks like I have in the past six, I should have a fine season.

"Slowed Up"

"I think that I have slowed up a step or two in running. But I'm a better hitter now. You can never tell what will happen, but I think I can play three or four more years at top speed."

The Yankee star is the second-highest -paid major leaguer. Willie Mays of San Francisco signed for an estimated $105,000 last month. Only three other baseball stars earned $100,000 or more in one year. They were Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox, Joe DiMaggio of the Yanks and Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cards. Williams reportedly received $125,000 toward the end of his career.

Choice Of College Poses Problem For Dave Turtzo

By KEN O'BRIEN
Daily Record Sports Editor

PEN ARGYL — The new basketball scoring king of the Lehigh-Northampton League, Dave Turtzo of Pen Argyl, is a busy lad these days trying to figure which college he will attend.

And it's no wonder.

As the six-foot senior continued to rip the nets at a record-setting pace for the Green Knights this past season, "feelers" from colleges poured in at almost a like speed.

These "feelers" to date total more than 15.

Is he close to making a final decision yet?

Considering Four

"I have about four in mind," says Dave who just turned 18. He has narrowed the field down to Villanova, Princeton, University of Pennsylvania and Duke. But he has yet to toss the others out the window while the number of colleges interested in him is likely to mount.

Dave Turtzo

About the only certainty his collegiate future is his major field of study—biology.

Dave completed a brilliant scholastic basketball career last week with a 39-point performance against Wilson Borough and climaxed his Pen Argyl exploits by scoring 42 against East Stroudsburg in the final game of the season. He shot for 56 per cent from the floor in those contests.

Coach Frank Vari says, "He's the best player I've ever coached." He also calls Dave "a fine team player and a good sport on and off the court."

Fractures Record

Turtzo finished the 1963-64 campaign with 671 points overall and 502 in the league. The old league mark for one season, set by Wilson Borough's Cal Vogel during the 1954-55 season, had been brutally fractured by 102 points.

Dave's record-breaking performance for the campaign actually dates back to the second game of the season when he surpassed Barry Young's Pen Argyl career record of 800 points. Continuing to rip the nets in torrid fashion, he finished for a career total of 1,428.

In Pen Argyl's ninth game, Turtzo cracked the 1,000-point plateau, upping his total to 1,010 with 42 against Southern Lehigh for another school mark—most points in one game.

But that mark didn't last long. Four games later, Dave tallied a phenomenal 55 points against Palisades while Pen Argyl set a school record with most points for one contest in its 99-53 conquest.

Another Mark

Still another record fell in Pen Argyl's 16th game— most points in one season by a Pen Argyl player. Turtzo snapped Young's mark against Hellertown, boosting his season total to 502. Young's record was 491.

In Pen Argyl's 19th game—against arch-rival Bangor—Vogel's seasonal league record was surpassed at Turtzo bosted his L-N mark to 421.

Scholastically, Turtzo has a 91.3 average and ranks sixth in his class of 130.

He has two major hobbies—collecting stamps and coins. "That's about all, I guess."

With one exception. That little matter of collecting basketball records.

End Of Road For Cagers

STROUDSBURG — Scholastic basketball in the Pocono-State Belt area reaches the end of the road tonight.

Pocono Mountain's Cardinals, 8-12 for the season, play host to Jim Thorpe in an exhibition scrap.

The only other game is a Pormount League battle at Pleasant Valley where the Bears entertain Pocono Catholic's Kingsmen.

'The Truth And Light'

Cassius An Islam; Just 'Wants Peace'

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI BEACH (AP)—"All I want is peace—peace for myself and peace for the world," the newly crowned heavyweight boxing champion, Cassius Clay, said Thursday in revealing that he had become a member of the Black Muslims.

"My religion is Islam," the 22-year-old Louisville fighter told The Associated Press in a telephone interview. "I believe Allah is God. I think this is the true way to save the world, which is on fire with hate."

Clay, famed for his glib tongue as well as his sharp fists, rattled off his views with unbridled enthusiasm, stopping only long enough to catch his breath.

Studied Religion

He said he had made an extended study of the religion over a period of months and had become convinced it is "the truth and the light."

"A rooster crows only when it sees the light," he said. "Put him in the dark and he'll never crow. I have seen the light and I'm crowing."

Clay, who stopped the formidable Sonny Liston in the seventh round of their 15-round title fight here Tuesday night, was relaxing at his temporary quarters when he was told that the leader of the black supremacy sect, Elijah Muhammad, had told a meeting in Chicago that the new ring champion was a disciple.

"Proud Of It"

"That is true, and I am proud of it," Clay said with obvious deep feeling. "But what is all the commotion about? Nobody asks other people about their religion. But now I am the champion, I am the king, so it seems the world is all shook up about what I believe.

"You call it Black Muslims, I don't. This is a name that has been given to us by the press. The real name is Islam. That means peace. Yet people brand us a hate group. They say we want to take over the country. They say we're Communists.

"That is not true. Followers of Allah are the sweetest people in the world, and there are 750 million of them — in Africa, Asia, all over the world.

No Weapons

"They don't carry knives. They don't tote weapons. They pray five times a day. The women wear dresses that come all the way to the floor and they don't commit adultery. The men don't marry white women.

"All they want to do is live in peace with the world. They don't hate anybody. They don't want to stir up any kind of trouble. All the meetings are held in secret, without any fuss or hate mongering."

Clay said his religion, which he said has brought him an "inner peace," was responsible for his sensational upset victory over Liston, an overwhelming 7-1 favorite.

Helped By God

"God was with me—I couldn't have done it without God," he added.

The youthful, boyish - faced fighter, descendent of a runaway Kentucky slave, said he resented the fact that some people attached "dire motives" to his Islam connections.

"I am a good boy. I never have done anything wrong," he insisted. "I have never been in jail. I have never been in court.

"I don't join any integration marches. I don't pay any attention to all those white women who wink at me. I don't carry signs.

"I like white people. I like my own people. They can live together without infringing on each other. You can't condemn a man for wanting peace—if you do, you condemn peace itself."

'Outpost' Wiconisco Comes Long, Long Way--By George

HARRISBURG (AP) — It was just a dot on the map until George Long came along. Now college basketball scouts are making the tiny community of Wiconisco a "must" stop in their travels.

Long, who plays for one of the smallest high schools in the state (enrollment 60), is making a bid for the 1964 scholastic basketball scoring championship in Pennsylvania.

With one game left, he has a total of 749 points in 20 games, second only to Larry Miller of Catasauqua. He leads with a lusty 37.4 points a game average.

National Acclaim

Long attracted national recognition last Jan. 28 by pouring in 70 points in a single game.

Since then, his coach, Curt Eberly reports that every college in Pennsylvania and many from out of state have come to take a look at the 6-1 senior.

"George has the ability to be a great scorer in any basketball game," says Eberly. "He shoots with either hand. He follows his shots better than any boy I've seen, and he out jumps every boy he's been up against."

Long was unable to play basketball as a freshman because of the death of his father. But he made up for the lost year by continuous practice during the summer months, wearing ankle weights to strengthen his legs.

Long's favorite shots are the jumper from the pivot and corner.

Hopes To Coach

Long, a "B" student at the Class C school, hopes to be a teacher-coach after college.

Miller, meanwhile, has chalked up 776 points during the regular season leading Catasauqua into the District 11 PIAA playoffs with a 35.3 average.

With the playoffs still before him, he stands a good chance of going over the 800 point mark.

Miller became the second highest all time scholastic point maker in Pennsylvania's history this year, trailing only Ron Krick who hit for 3,174 points in four years at West Reading. Krick is now a sophomore at the University of Cincinnati.

TAX ORDINANCE

Ordinance No. 105

AN ORDINANCE of the Borough of Mount Pocono, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, fixing the tax rate for the fiscal year 1964.

BE IT ORDAINED AND ENACTED, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the Council of the Borough of Mount Pocono, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

Section 1. That a tax be and the same is hereby levied on all property and occupations within the said Borough subject to taxation for Borough purposes for the fiscal year 1964, as follows:

Tax rate for general Borough purposes, the sum of six and one-half mills on each dollar of assessed valuation on real estate;

Tax rate for general Borough purposes, the sum of eight mills on each dollar of assessed valuation on occupations;

Making a total tax rate for all Borough purposes of fourteen and one-half mills.

Section 2. That any ordinance, or part of ordinance, conflicting with this Ordinance be and the same is hereby repealed insofar as the same affects this Ordinance.

Adopted this 3rd day of February, A. D. 1964.

BOROUGH OF MOUNT POCONO
By ALBERT J. STETS,
President of Council

Attest:
DONALD J. SABLES,
Secretary

Approved this 3rd day of February, A. D. 1964.

GERALD M. POSSINGER,
Burgess

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given pursuant to Section 2 of the Act of June 25, 1947, P. L. 1115, as amended, that the Council of the Borough of Mount Pocono, Monroe County, Pennsylvania, at a regular meeting held February 3, 1964, passed an Ordinance re-enacting without substantial change the provisions of Mount Pocono Borough Ordinance No. 50, enacted February 8, 1951, which imposed a $5 per capita tax for Borough purposes, said per capita tax having been imposed for the reason that the revenues of the said Borough of Mount Pocono from other taxes and sources were insufficient to pay the operating expenses of said Borough.

By Order of the Council of the Borough of Mount Pocono.
DONALD J. SABLES,

Mobile Homes & Parks 77

Hi,
Well, we have another buying trip under our belt. Last month it was to Louisville, Ky. for mobile homes and 20' wides. This time for travel trailers.

Last Monday I drove to Fort Wayne, Ind. for the National Travel Trailer and Camper Show. There were 185 models on display plus 45 manufacturer's suppliers. It was a traveler's paradise. You name it and it was there. From 6' to 30' long 4' to 8' wide, hardtops, soft tops, front cabovers, rear cabovers, folding units, expanding units, 4, 6, and 8 sleepers, pick-up campers, motor homes, modern decor., Early American, Western, and there was even French Provincial in one model.

But again, I had to look beyond the "gingerbread" and really investigate all models. After the second day I had it narrowed down to 13 different makes. That's when the real work started. Final decisions were made after comparing quality of workmanship and materials used. Which make had Vinyl floor tile instead of "off goods"? Was the subfloor nailed or screwed to the Joists? Was the screen door standard or extra? How about brakes? How many 12 volt lights? What make windows? Did the exhaust fan have meltable plastic knobs or were they metal? Were the cabinets made of solid stock or 3/16 plywood? And so it went.

By Friday afternoon I had completed my buying and left Fort Wayne with a 1964, 20 foot, Holiday Rambler in tow. After driving through snow for several hundred miles, I arrived home Saturday noon.

And so it goes. We will continue to investigate all travel trailers and campers before we buy. You will never find us buying from a door to door "peddler" or buying just because of low freight rates, bonuses, or rebates. We pledge to always offer the best available for a fair price. We will never offer you mobile homes or travel trailers on the Basis of "PRICE" alone, because we at Carl & Shirley's cannot afford to sell inferior products. Remember, you only get what you pay for.

So keep watching our ads. As the new makes and models come in, we will announce them. Then come to Carl & Shirley's and see a complete line of travel trailers, pickup campers and tent campers. We will have many models available, from the Apache for $395 to the 30' Avion for $7000. Never has such a complete selection been so close to you. Therefore, for all your traveling needs, come to NORTHEAST PENNSYLVANIA'S MOST COMPLETE TRAVEL TRAILER SALES AND SERVICE CENTER, Carl & Shirley's, Marshalls Creek Mobile Home Sales.

Sincerely Yours,
Carl

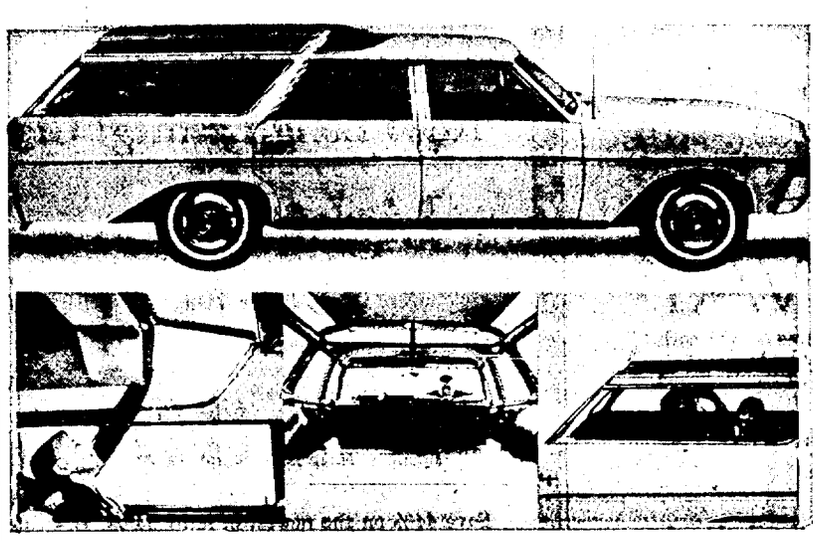
*a*nnouncing . . .

Weichel Buick has the new Skylark Sports Wagon.

(Wouldn't you be happier if you had it?)



How's this for a switch? People actually ride better than cargo in our sleek new Buick Skylark Sports Wagon. See that sporty raised roof? It lets second- and third-seat passengers sit up tall (yes, we've got two- and three-seat models). See the glass in the roof?. It's a special kind—absorbs heat and glare, lets everyone look up and out so they never feel "hemmed in." But this new kind of wagon has big cargo space as well as big people space (97.9 cubic feet, in fact!) which is just one more reason it makes whatever you're now driving pretty old hat. So come in for some happy trade talk on our new Skylark Sports Wagon. We can arrange terms to suit you just fine.

Yetter: Scranton's UC Push Publicity Buildup

MARSHALLS CREEK — Gov. William W. Scranton's proposed revisions to the state's unemployment compensation laws were called "part of a big publicity build - up, designed to make the governor a presidential nominee" state Rep. Van Yetter said yesterday.

While conceding changes in the compensation laws are necessary, Yetter a Democrat said, "Scranton's bill does not have a good chance to pass the Legislature.

"He is doing an awful disservice to the state because the publicity this thing has attracted has gone all over the nation. Hundreds of thousands of people are going to get the idea unemployment compensation is a big monster and it isn't."

Yetter, who is seeking nomination for his sixth term to the General assembly, said. "It isn't as bad as he says it is. I have talked to several people who work at getting industry in the state and they tell me unemployment compensation is never a factor."

He was referring to Scranton statements claiming the near bankrupt compensation fund is a major factor in keeping industry out of the state.

Made No Mention

"I was talking to officials from a firm going to locate in Milford and they made no mention of unemployment compensation.

"The Pennsylvania Industrial Development Agency—a Democratic initiated agency — is bringing industry to the state and in spite of all his (Scranton's) noise it is still doing a good job," said Yetter.

He said the Democrats are against the proposed revisions "and many Republicans are against it but if he beats them over the head he might get it through the legislature."

Yetter said:

"He ran on a platform of no power politics but he has employed more power politics than both Leader and Lawrence combined (former Pennsylvania governors, George Leader and David Lawrence) in the short time he has been in Harrisburg.

"On unemployment compensation, I have taken the position I would go along with some changes in the present laws. But as long as Scranton says it is going to be his way and he is not going to accept any changes, I won't be able to go along with what he proposed.

"Hil bill is so complicated — it is really a ripper bill — it rips the guts right out of the present legislation. He will have to accept some changes to get the bill through.

"I am not so sure he wants changes in the compensation bill. It might be a publicity build-up for himself as a presidential candidate."

The Womans Society of Christian Service of the Portland Methodist Church will meet Tuesday, Mar. 3 at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Russell Reimer, Upper Main St.

The Portland Borough Council will meet Monday at 8 p.m. in the Town hall.

The Junior Fellowship met recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Wheeler, and organized for the year officers are president, Miss Shirley Reagle; vice president, Roger Pensyl; recording secretary, Miss Gail Ann Labarre; corresponding secretary, Miss Susan Jewell; treasurer, Bradley Wilhelm; assistant treasurer, Kim Potter. Counselors are Mrs. Wheeler and Miss Kay Ribble.

The official Board of the Portland Methodist Church met recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gardner. Rev. Raymond Poortstra conducted the meeting. Plans were made for an auction sale to be held on June 13 on the church lawn. It was announced the repairs to the church roof would be continued when weather permitted. There were 13 members. The next meeting will be held March 23 in the church.

Herbert Hoagland, cashier of the Portland National Bank, attended a meeting of the Pennsylvania Banker's Association over the weekend. The meeting was held in the Penn-Stroud Hotel at Stroudsburg.

PV Graduates Gain Honors

BRODHEADSVILLE — John Mills, supervising principal of Pleasant Valley Joint School district, yesterday received word from West Chester State College that two Pleasant Valley High School graduates have been named to the dean's list.

They are: Rebecca Doney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Doney of Kunkletown, and Sandra Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arlington Martin of Effort.

Miss Doney graduated from PVHS in 1961. She is a junior and is a music major. Miss Martin graduated from PVHS in 1962 and is a sophomore majoring in education.

Picketing Continues

EAST STROUDSBURG — Monroe County bricklayers protesting what they claim to be unfair hiring practices at the new five-story addition to the General Hospital of Monroe County continued picketing the hospital yesterday for the fourth consecutive day.

The marchers vowed yesterday to continue to picket "until the contractor hires some local bricklayers." The demonstrators claim C. B. Haney of Bethlehem, the job's brick contractor, has refused to employ any local help on the project.

While picketing, the marchers carry signs saying, "I am a Monroe County resident bricklayer. How come I can't get a job?"

New Highway

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet authorities announced Wednesday night plans for a 1,250-mile super-highway from Moscow to Chelyabinsk, heart of the Urals industrial area. The government news agency Tass said the road will by-pass cities and bridge intersecting roads.
